Church Gives Way To Autos

By LEO SCHADE

The old First Christian church – more recently the Church of God of Prophecy – will be no more.

It has stood for 55 years downtown at the corner of New Madrid and Trotter streets.

Frank Ferrell and a demolition crew are razing the building and clearing debris on the church grounds.

The Christian church had its beginning in 1906 to 1915 with 18 charter members. A frame building was erected in 1910 at the rear of the lot.

Serving as ministers in the frame building, 1906, the Rev. Horace Sibrell, the Rev. Clarence Read; 1908, the Rev. Mr. Fields; 1911, the Rev. C. A. Burris; 1914, the Rev. J. B. Lockhart.

In 1911 the church built a basement for the brick building. Old members recall that the summer heat was almost unbearable. So a new church was begun overhead. The cornerstone was laid Nov. 19, 1914.

The church was dedicated June 20, 1915, with the Rev. George L. Sniveley, as speaker, and the Rev. I. H. Fuller as pastor. Church history records that both the Rev. Clarence Burton, pastor of First Methodist church, and the Rev. Sterling Brite, pastor of First Baptist church, adjourned their services early to assist in the dedication.

The downtown Christian church building was abandoned following the completion of an educational building on North Main street in 1956, following groundbreaking in October of 1955. A new sanctuary has since been built at this site.

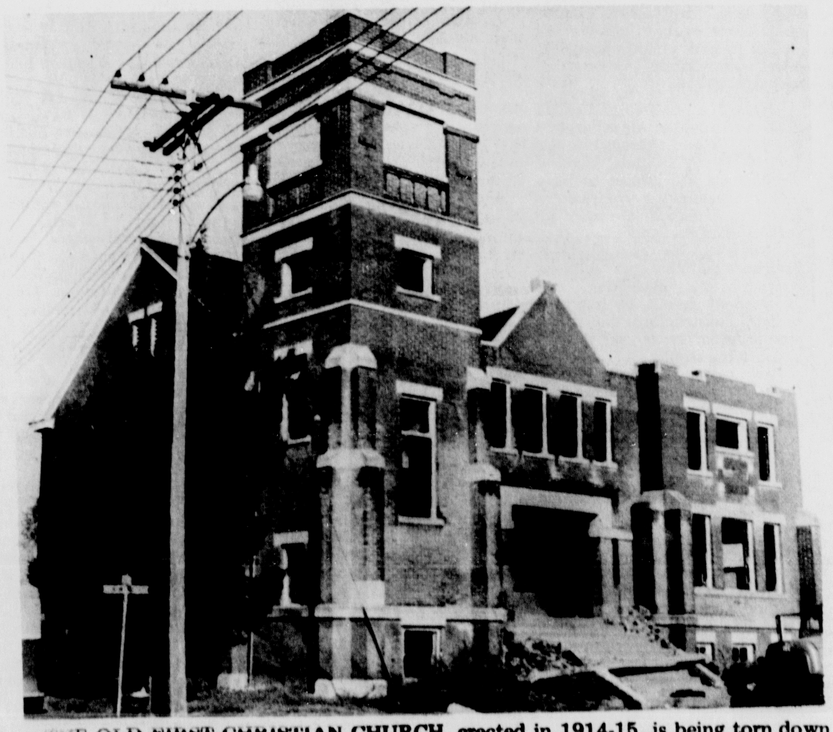
The brick building was left vacant until the early 1960s when it was sold to the Church of God of Prophecy. Last year the property was sold to the city for $10,000 and will be used as a parking lot for the Civic Center, involving another downtown former church – the First Baptist – now being remodeled.

Other Christian church ministers:

1916-18, the Rev. John Wells and the Rev. J.C. Hoke; 1919, the Rev. R. M.Houston; 1920, the Rev. Cyrus Mitchell; 1921, the Rev. Mr. Morton and the Rev. Mr. Walker; 1923, the Rev. E. B. Hensley; 1930, the Rev. Mr. McFarland; 1931, the Rev. O. P. Bellinger; 1933-38, the Rev. W. W. Walker and Rev. R. M. Talbert;

1939-40, the Rev. R. S. Rains; 1941-42, the Rev. J. P. Read;1943-50, the Rev. R. M. Talbert; 1951-53, the Rev. George Atkins; 1954-60, the Rev. Wayne Davis;

Pastors of new church, 1960-66, the Rev. Myron Neal; 1967, the Rev. Durward Penry, the present minister.



THE OLD FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, erected in 1914-15, is being torn down to make room for a parking lot for the Civic Center.

Arrests Clear Up Burglaries At Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — The arrests Sunday of five juveniles, ages six through fifteen has solved several thefts.

Three boys breaking into parked cars at the Church of God and stealing clothing were apprehended by Officers Roy Hurley and Bill Dial. Following their arrest two other youths, six and 11, were implicated in the theft of a case of sodas from a storage room at a service station.

Two of the boys told police they had also taken a pistol, tape player, and 20 tapes from Louis Daugherty's car parked in his

Robinson Innocent

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A Cole County Circuit Court jury today acquitted State Treasurer William E. Robinson of a charge he used his office for private gain.

The verdict came after the jury had deliberated for 6½ hours.

There was applause in the courtroom at the decision. Robinson and his wife broke into tears.

Later, Robinson said "I am deeply gratified" at the verdict.

The all-male jury deliberated four and one-half hours Wednesday night after both sides made closing statements.

In his closing statement, Dale Rollins, special prosecutor, reviwed the testimony of James B. Crismon, former president of the defunct First State Bank of Bonne Terre, that he gave Robinson $2,500 in cash in exchange for additional state deposits.

Rollins said Crismon and his son, Larry, both testified Robinson received the cash in a car at a motel parking lot in Jefferson City in August of 1969.

Thomas Guilfoil, defense attorney, pointed out in his closing argument that Robinson never denied taking the money but that it was a campaign contribution.

The statements came after the defense preented all its five witnesses, including Robinson, during the third day of the trial.

The state treasurer said Crismon told him he wanted to make a contribution to a campaign to secure passage of a constitutional amendment that would permit Robinson to succeed himself. The amendment passed in 1970.

Robinson said he saw Crismon at various times in their home town of Bonne Terre and in Jefferson City. He said Crismon had asked him about state deposits.

On cross examination, Robinson said he kept no detailed accounts of how he spent the full $2,500 and he could not recall specific meetings with the banker.

He also said he could not recall if he carried a $200,000 state check to the motel to give Crismon for deposit in the Bonne Terre bank.

Both Crismon and his son and Mrs. June While Saltz, who admitted she was the elder Crismon's mistress at the time, testified Tuesday that Robinson brought the check.

Other defense witnesses testified they had received a total of $1,600 in cash to work for the amendment's passage. Robinson said he used the rest of the money in traveling over the state campaigning for the amendment.

Full Work Again At Shoe Factory

Forest Rudd, plant superintendent of International Shoe Co. plant, announced today that the company will return to full production in two weeks.

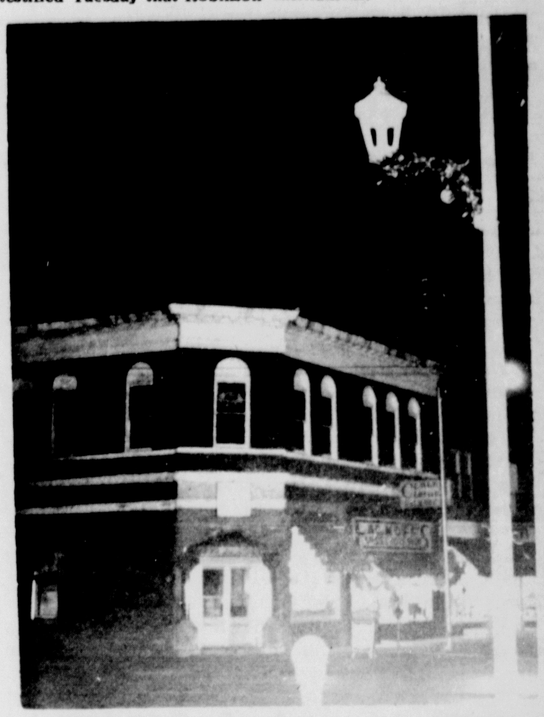
Late in 1970 an in early 1971, International Shoe decreased production and laid off personnel because of a slowdown in orders. The plant was closed down for more than four weeks.

"When the orders were coming in slowly we had to lay off workers accordingly, but now we have the orders and should start out increased production at the end of this week," Rudd said.

The plant is producing 5,340 pairs of shoes a day, but will increase it to full production of 6,000 pairs. The plant will continue to cut and fit an additional 24 dozen pair a day for the Welt Shoe Company in Windsor.

Rudd said the increase in production would mean adding from 35 to 40 to the payroll. Hiring should begin by the end of this week. International employes 460 in full production.

Rudd said he doesn't foresee another slowdown in orders.



CHRISTMAS IN APRIL? No. Just a hopeful look into the future of what is in store for Christmas, 1971. The Sikeston Metro Association Inc. is buying 30 of these Christmas lanterns with live greenery at a cost of $55 each. This lantern is at the corner of Front Street and New Madrid. At Christmas time, the arm of the lantern will be lighted. Anyone wishing to make contributions can mail their checks to Charles D. Matthews, Bank of Sikeston.

County Court Scans Finances

BENTON– County Clerk Bob Kiehlhofner reports this morning that the county court is reviewing the financial outlook of the county. The court is comparing county expenditures over the first three months with budget allotments.

Kiehlhofner said the county was in "pretty good shape" but added that the next few months are the most expensive.

The county will spend nearly $170,000 for county road improvement, he explained.

The court said that $109,000 has been spent out of the $500,000 budget.

Kiehlhofner said that he is looking into the possibility of obtaining turkey tags for Scott county. Scott County has no turkey hunting, but surrounding Wayne and Bollinger counties do and it is an inconvience for hunters to "chase down" someone selling turkey tags in those counties.

Kiehlhofner said he will place a call to the Missouri Conservation Commission to seek turkey tag sales in Scott County.

At Science Fair

Ribbon to Lemmons

By JUDY GAZETTE

CAPE GIRARDEAU — If the 15th annual Southeast Missouri Science Fair is an indiattion of good things to come, by mid-1980 many of America's ecological problems, drug hangups, and threatening diseases will be on the wane.

Students from 26 area schools exhibited 187 projects in Houck stadium in fields from botany to senior mathematics and computers.

One of the most intriguing exhibits was entered by Donna Diebold of Scott City. The entry -- A Study Of Bees -- includes a large glass-front hive housing live bees in the process of making honey. Diagrams, honeycombs and tools of the beekeeper's trade complete the story.

Jeff Behrle of Perryville displayed a small-scale, man-made hurricane showing wind and moisture effects. In

Flags to Mark Earth Day

Girl Scouts of Troop 3 made two ecology flags to be flown Saturday on Earth Day.

The flags have green and white stripes, with the Greek letter Theta in white on a green background.

The white stripes represent pure air and the green stripes represent unspoiled land.

The letter is a warning. It is used in the flag to remind the world that unless people take care of the environment, the future holds only death.

The Earth Day schedule Saturday begins at 9 a.m. with flag raising.

At 9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m., 750 children will pick up litter all over the city.

At 11 a.m.- noon, trucks will pick up litter.

At 12:00-3 p.m. a landfill project will be held at rodeo grounds.

There will be a sculpture contest of objects collected in trash collections at Kingsway Mall during an art show, Tuesday through Thursday.

Movie Set Atmosphere At Shopping Center Lot

The parking lot of the Midtowner Village Shopping Center will resemble a scene from a Hollywood movie this weekend when Hollywood stuntman Dick Ryan comes to town.

Ryan will perform Friday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Prior to performances, children will be allowed to ride Admiral, his 38-year-old movie pony. Ryan will perform many of the stunts he has done in movies and on television, explaining beforehand the planning that has gone into each.

"The secret to successful jumping isn't in the way you're built, but what you have in your mind," Ryan explains.

"Before you do a stunt, you must plan it out. If you don't have a plan you don't do the stunt. You use your mind, or you don't live.

"Women are normally better jumping horse riders than men because they have a light touch and are gentle on horses. Most men think they can overcome the horse with muscles, but a horse outweighs a man by six or seven times and could easily overcome a man. It takes gentleness and the use of planning to overcome the horse."

For the performances here he is using British Wonder, a horse which he has worked with and owned 21 years and which he says is over 40 years old.

"When I bought the horse, I didn't know his age or that much about him," Ryan said, "But when he turned out to be such a good horse, I traced him back as far as I could and discovered he was at least 20 years old when I bought him."

Explaining the spryness of the horse after so many years in the business, he said "British Wonder doesn't know he's suppose to be old, so he just goes on and on. He's just like any person who enjoys what he's doing."

Ryan went on to explain that 40 years old is not an amazingly long life for a horse. Horses live to be in their 60s he said.

A native of Amherstburg, Ontario, Canada, Ryan learned to jump horses when he was four or five. At 16 he started in show business as one of the youngest persons ever to do horse jumping stunts in motion pictures.

Although most people don't recognize Ryan's name or face, they will remember the horse jumping scene in "Gone with the Wind". It was Ryan doing the stunts.

He and his pony, Admiral, were both in tha film. Admiral was the pony ridden by Bonnie Blue, daughter of Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara. Although Admiral no longer appears in movies, he still provides rides for children at Ryan's performances.

Ryan also supplied the ponies for the "Wizard of Oz" and was placed in charge of the 250 midgets who played the Munchkins in the movie.

Other movies in which he did the horse jumping scene include the Jesse James pictures in the late 1930s, all the Errol Flynn movies and the Marx Brothers' "Day at the Races."

Ryan has most appeared on television in episodes of "Gunsmoke", "The Virginian," and "Big Valley". Those who don't remember the stunt man from his movies, may remember him as the man who put on the famous Armistice Day Rodeo in 1945 in Tokyo. During the rodeo, Emperor Hirohito allowed Ryan to ride his white Arabian stallion, Hatsushimo-First Frost, around the arena. Afterwards, the emperor presented the stallion to Ryan as a gift, after Gen. Douglas McArthur turned it down.

He brought it back to the United States. He still owns it today although he doesn't use it in his shows.

Ryan now tours the country with his horse jumping act in the spring and summer after television filmings are completed. He has taught riding to such stars as Susan Hayward, Ronald Regan and Linda Darnell.

WHAT COMMUNISM IS LIKE

The left-leaning Washington Post recently published a series of well-featured articles promoting the "cause" of a number of those in the "intellectual community" who, during the worst days of Stalinism, supported the U. S. S. R. and opposed investigations of Communism in America. All of them claimed (and the Post faithfully reported, without contradicion or correction) that Communism was something rather uplifting ("like the Boy Scouts," said one) and that they would never, but never, reveal the names of their fellow quislings annd collaborators, such was their noble nature.

But the real face of Communism is shown in the April, 1971 issue of READER'S DIGEST Magazine. An article everyone should read is "Inside The Prisons of Hanoi," by Louis R. Stockstill. From informed sources, the blood-chilling story is told of the cruelty and inhumanity of the Viet Cong who are now holding upwards of 1,600 Americans as blackmail, hoping that the United States will turn all of South Vietnam over to their tender mercies in exchange for the prisoners. In the meantime, the Red thugs are subjecting the POW captives to the most degrading treatment imaginable.

One other fact emerges from the DIGEST story; the description of how the communists treat people in North Vietnam is astonishingly, and shockingly identical to that of the Communists in North Korea (in the Pueblo case as well as the Korean War) and of the Communist in the USSR and the captive nations of Europe. It is highly unlikely that the Red jail keepers in North Vietnam, North Korea, Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, or Poland have ever met; but their behavior towards their captives is the same, because all of them share the same Marxist-Leninist ideology.

You can do something about it by writing a short (but emphatic!) letter now to Ton Duc Thang, Dictator of North Vietnam, Hanoi, c/o Young Americans For Freedom, 1221 Mass. Ave. N. W., Washington D.C. 20005, demanding the release of prisoners, access of the Red Cross to the POW camps, and adherence to the Geneva Convention.

WHAT KIND OF A COUNTRY
ARE YOU LEAVING ME?

(Editor's note: A reader brought us a clipping of one of the most powerful editorials we have read anywhere. It was distributed some years ago by the Coast Federal Savings of Los Angeles. Every line of it will make you think. It will make some people feel ashamed and it may make some people angry. We hope it will make you angry enough to do something about it. Anyway, this is the editorial:)

There is no use pretending you don't see me.

You just sit still and listen.

I'm not very smart yet, but I'm smart enough to see what you are doing to the country in which I must grow up and support my family.

When I do that, will I be allowed to be myself, or will I be a social security number in a government file?

When I get sick, whose doctor can I go to, my doctor or the government doctor?

When I go to school, who is going to decide what I learn, my mother and father or a government bureau?

When I am able to afford a house, will I be able to build one just as good as I can make it, or will it be a government-built house, worth only part of what the government taxed me for housing?

When I go to work, will I be able to pick my own job or will I have to get a work permit from the government and take whatever job they give me?

And if I have critized the government, will I get a work permit?

A clipping found in an old scrapbook reads this way:

I married a widow who had a grown-up daughter. My father visited our house very often and fell in love with my step-daughter and married her. So my father became my son-in-law and my step-daughter my mother, because she was my father's wife.

Sometime afterward, my wife had a son -- he was my father's brother-in-law and uncle, for he was the brother of my step-daughter.

My father's wife (my step-daughter) also had a son; he was, of course, my brother, and in the meantime, my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter.

My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild, at the same time. And as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather.

Lo, yon window in Harvard's ivory tower gloweth brightly and the bell ringeth loudly, but it doth not ring for thee; it twangs for Liberaldom and Mushy Muscovitism. Here is where academic hooey dwells and it would be funny if having SDS courses and riots and Harvey Coxes were only to be Harvard's undoing (and no one else's). But see, it doesn't work that way. Fabian Socialism was nurtured here (the Lowell Lectures) and it seems every present-day divisive element in the U. S. was germinated here or touched magically by those who came to Harvard. One could name some of its teachers, like that old Fabian Socialist Harold Laski, Arthur Schlesinger Sr. (& Jr.), Felix Frankfurter, John Maynard Keynes, and student Walter Lippmann who founded Harvard's Intercollegiate Socialist Society and co-founded the New Republic. Not to mention the ADA types who now run the middle echelon of government who ... but we tire of scratching this surface and should write a book, but no one would publish it. Why? Because the books that get published and publicized are done so by Harvard -Types who publish Harvard Corp. Blum co-authored an antihistory called The National Experience: A History of the United States, along with Schlesinger, Jr. - the result being intellectual murder. One almost wishes SDS could bring down academe, starting and ending with Harvard.

Elrick was "horrified" that a Negro schoolteacher had said: "We should indoctrinate every child with the idea of being loyal to his country." Elrick also said it was "deplorable" for the school bulletin board to display the exhortation "God Bless America" because it is, "in effect, a prayer in violation of the Supreme Court's ruling that public schools are to refrain from such activities." Being talked about in the nation's capital is, believe it or not, year-round daylight-saving time. The Washington Star reports that a lot of government workers want another hour of daylight during the winter (it's dark at 5:05 p.m. there) in order to get home before the muggers unsheath their knives and start waving their pistols. Some top policemen say they doubt if the extra hour would deter crime, but some of these doubters say the idea is worth a try — especially if it would also speed up homeward -bound traffic. The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has several time change bills, most of which seek to cut the six months of daylight savings to three months. Perhaps any coming debate on the matter would be good, giving the nation a respite from coming debates on military expenditures and socialized medicine.

Since 1956 total government (Federal, state and local) tax collections have increased by 181 per cent, Tax Foundations, Inc., estimates.

In fiscal 1956, collections amounted to just over $100 billion, or the equivalent of $2,045 per American household. For Fiscal 1971, Tax Foundation researchers estimate tax collections will total $218 billion, or $4,328 per household.

This increase reflects a considerable rise, of course, in total government expenditures.

Here's the tax collection figures by government entity and on a per household basis as shown in the table below:

Fiscal Year	Tot. Govt. Taxes	Fed. Govt. Taxes (in billions)	State-Local Govt. Taxes	Total Per Hshld.
1971	$281	$185	$96	$4,328

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS NOW, one or more police in the cities of the United States, has been murdered weekly by law violators. We have now passed four years since anyone sentenced to death has been executed. That man who murdered the eight nurses in cold blood, still lives. So does the assassins of Bobby Kennedy and Martin Luther King. Federal courts have found that the Chicago Seven, and their attorneys cannot be held in jail for contempt of court because of some technicality. Charles Manson and several members of his harem have been sentenced to death for the murder of Sharon Tate and others, whom the murderers did not know, but thought they ought to be killed. It is doubtful they will ever go to the gas chamber or the electric chair. Crime can be committed with less danger of punishment today than ever before. CRITICS OF
RAILPAX

Montana has been given only one across-state Railpax passenger train route, so Senator Mansfield says that is inadequate and Railpax ought to serve all 48 states. Wyoming gets no routes, so Senator McGee wants to rescind public funds until Railpax justifies its routes.

But Railpax Roard Chairman David W. Kendall has justified the routes. He notes that the system will serve all but one of the 29 cities of more than 1,000,000 population, and all but one of 27 cities above 500,000. Railpax has always been intended primarily as an intercity service, because intercity traffic alone promises to make money. And Congress insisted in establishing Railpax that it make a profit. It will make none in Wyoming or Montana, if it ever makes one.

Senators Mansfield and McGee voted for Railpax, including the profit provision. When they now demand the impossible, it must be for the folks back home. Surely they know better.

GOOD NAME'S WORTH ...
TO OTHERS

"Who steals my purse steals trash," quoth the Bard, " ... but he who filches from me my good name robs me of that which not enriches him and makes me poor indeed."

Shakespeare might have cause to revise his lines were he alive today. One of the biggest businesses in a nation of big businesses is the buying or selling or renting or swapping of the good names of tens of millions of Americans.

Alas, betimes the lucrative business of selling by mail can also lead to the filching of names, as witness a suit recently filed in Chicago by Encyclopedia Britannica against three of its former employes.

Yon suit charges that said former employes, all of whom worked the night shift as computer operators, stole the company's confidential list of customers' names and addresses by copying computer tape reels. Not only that, but they presumably did it on company equipment and on company time.

They then peddled the names to a direct mail service company, which purchased them in good faith and sold them in turn to a competitor of EB. The theft was discovered when a piece of mail was received by a code name or decoy on the list, who was actually a member of the EB marketing staff.

In its suit, the company claims theft of its property — viz., the names of over two million people.

The two million, of course, whoever they are, probably remain blissfully convinced that Shakespeare was right and that their names are their own property.

Not these days.

PAY AS YOU BLOW
IT UP

The dean of the University of Wisconsin law school has come up with, if not a solution, at least a new approach to a major headache of college administrators — the soaring cost of property damage insurance.

Under a plan formulated by Dean Spencer L. Kimball, each student at state universities would be required to pay a surcharge of $100 each semester. The individual campus would hold $90 and the remaining $10 would go into a general fund covering all schools in the state.

At the Madison campus alone of the University of Wisconsin, this would create a fund of some $5.5 million.

But if no damage o disruption occurred during the semester, the $90 would be refunded to the student. The state would keep the $10.

It,s sort of a pay -as - you - blow -it -up plan, though Kimball hopes that its real effect would be to encourage students to oppose acts of violence.

JUSTICE DOUGLAS, THE WRITER

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, still under investigation by House members for possible impeachment proceedings, has turned some of his thoughts to foreign affairs and government agencies other than the judiciary in a new book, "International Dissent."

The controversial justice who is the ultimate liberal in interpretations of the law apparently has been heavily swayed by the utterances of the communist and Marxist adherants in this country and abroad. He sees no great danger in the Communist nations. We should not fear the Soviet Union, he intimates. He declares that Castro's Cuba has a relatively mild Communist system which is only inflammatory to the minds of our U.S. fascists.

He has some thoughts on Red China and what we ought to do about it. "If the United States were to support the admission of (communist) China as ... a member of the family of nations .... it would change the American image and do more than any single thing ... to relieve the tensions that plague the world."

And he believes that the Pentagon ought to be reduced to the size of "an average federal agency."

There has been a feeling among law -abiding citizens for Several years now that Mr. Justicy Douglas has gone a long way in destroying our system of justice with his far-out, liberal decisions. We wonder now if he wouldn't just as soon we threw in with the socialistic system and join in extinguishing world freedom. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--President Nixon is using the White House to throw funraising dinners for the Republicans campaign chest.

He invites fat cats to the White House for quiet, de rigeur dinners. Afterward, over Sancerre and cigars, they are hit up for political contributions.

Few financial tycoons can resist an invitation to dine at the White House, and they arrive resplendent in black tie and tux to be plucked.

To preserve the presidential dignity, Nixon doesn,t stay around for the sordid financial pitch. He makes some lofty remarks about peace and prosperity, then discreetly departs before the money tree is shaken.

The latest White House fund raiser was held on April 8 less than three weeks after the President declared on TV his firm support for limiting campaign contributions.

A glittering gathering of Illinois millionaires, dressed in their fancy duds, munched on delectables from the White House kitchen and listened to the President talk.

He told how he was turning the Vietnam war over to the Vietnamese and said he was sorry he hadn't followed his own advice when he urged stock market speculators to start buying a year ago.

He started to leave, paused to listen respectfully to Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie, then made good his escape.

WHITE HOUSE PITCH

Thereupon, lesser White House celebrities took over and began to warm up the group for the plucking. Even Harry Dent, the President's Southern strategist, joined in the political evangelism.

"Southerners just love the President," oozed Dent in his best Dixie dialect.

First on his feet to offer financial aid was insurance tycoon W. Clement Stone, perhaps the sweeter sugar daddy of them all, who contributed a traceable $650,000 to the GOP in 1969, another $1 million in 1970 through a maze of channels.

But the willing Stone, who resembles the late comedian Robert Benchley, has received unfavorable publicity for his beneficence. Presumably with this in mind, R. Douglas Stuart, the Quaker Oats magnate, suggested bluntly that Clem Stone's name ought to be kept out of their fund-raising effort.

"You are absolutely right," said Stone amiably. "I agree with you completely."

In the awesome atmosphere of the White House, full of good food and drink, the money men offered little resistnace. Indeed, the fat cats are expected to line up for a chance to be dunned at a White House dinner. And the rustle of every unfolding bill and the scratch of pen on check add emphasis to the need for reforming the greatest evil in the American political system.

HASSAN'S ARMY

FBI and narcotics agents are investigating a black nationalist who is using $523,000 in federal funds to prepare artisan-soldiers for eventual emigration to Africa.

At the head of this bizarre private army is Col. Hassan Jeru-Ahmed, a handsome, ebullient man of 47, whohas also wangled $169,000 in government drug-treatment money for his Blackman's Development Center.

The FBI is checking allegations that the federal funds are being misused. The narcotics agents are inquiring why his drug-treatment center can't seem to bar heroin from its own premises.

And the Anti-Defamation League would like to block all funds to the self-styled colonel because of his anti-Semitic past.

Yet a number of responsible officials, doctors and even narcotics men praise him for reaching the unreachables. Addicts who would never deal with a government agency have flocked to Hassan's center for methadone treatment. Some don't come back; others stop by merely to pick up the substitute drug. But others, apparently, have been cured.

Hassan, a onetime bad check artist and onetime wig seller, had nearly 200 men quartered in his private army billets around Washington. He claims to have 8,000 troops scattered across the country, a figure doubted by federal officials.

Whatever his past, he has proved to be a brilliant organizer. Besides his government grants, he is trying to run construction teams, an arts program in an old theater and a filling station.

He calls his para-military force the Blackman's Volunteer Army of Liberation, the military arm of the Provisional Government of the United Moorish Republic. This mythical government exists only in Hassan't mind. But the troops are real; and the $523,000 is real.

His drug-treatment program, structured entirely by Hassan himself, has registered thousands of addicts, many for the first time. Dr. Robert DuPont, whose own Washington, D.C., drug program has been harshly criticized by Hassan, allows that the controversial colonel has "played an important and constructive role in dramatizing tothe Washington community the serious epidemic of heroin addiction."

But two prominent black leaders, who asked that their names be withheld because of fear of violence from Hassan is doing a good job. "If he's doing what he says," said the official, "then he should go on.

If he's not, then he ought to be arrested."

EARLIER EARLY RETIREMENT: Union Men Now Push For Double Pensions; State, City, Private Systems Total $182 Billion:

WASHINGTON: -- Once upon a time a very fine president promised a chicken in every pot. Had he been campaigning today he might have been arrested for peddling dangerous drugs. Semantics have changed. Times have changed. After the chicken came two cars in every garage. Last season bright young realtors began promoting the two-home family. And now the nation's organized workers are pushing for a two-pension retirement.

Actually this development is under way in some cities. The cost will be enormous. No tax system can remain its solid underpinning in the public sector. No private pension system can support the retiree on two pensions without inflating the dollar into a reasonable facsimile of the Czarist rouble.

At this moment of so-called normalcy in retirement on single pensions there are $130 billion in private pension funds. And there are $52 billion in state and local government employe pension systems.

At a "normal" rate of growth, 9 per cent to 12 per cent a year, specialists estimate that in some two decades private pension pools will contain over $500 billion.

As for the state, county and municipal pension systems -- who can tell? In the New York City systems alone there now are some $4 billion. The new contract will cost the city $10 million more annually just to cover the three uniformed services. Today's $52 billion worth of public sector pension funds could run into the hundreds of billions, too, as Jerry Wurf's American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFL-CIO), the country's swiftest growing union, whips across the nation's cities signing up 65,000 civil servants yearly and the teachers push as they now are in Newark, N.J., Pittsburgh, San Francisco, etc., etc. -- all afflicted with the terminal syndrome. Early retirement, early retirement early retirement.

Recently at dinner, one of the nation's eminent businessmen turned to me and said I'd not believe him, but a bright young executive whom he had been grooming had resigned. And the chap had gone into the city's sanitation department. This is a euphemism for collecting garbage. My friend was told by the departing assistant that he wanted early retirement. He couldn't get a better deal -- half pay after 20 years on the job with retirement at any age.

The "half pay" pension is based on the total of the pay checks he receives during the last year on the job.

Thus shift differential money, special premium pay for any kind of special work and overtime are added to the base pay. There are cases in which hundreds of workers in several departments of one city take every minute of overtime, every second of any kind of premium pay work in an effort to hike the last year's pay.

Many, many times the base pay is doubled when the special pay and overtime are added. Thus half of this total upon retirement is the original base pay -- and, in effect, the retiree goes out with his original full pay for life.

In at least one major city this could mean anywhere between $12,000 and $14,000. It could also mean retirement on such "half" pay anywhere between the ages of 41 and 45. At this point, new jobs often are obtained, especially by policemen, fire fighters, transit patrolmen, transit workers, and sanitation men. Then in another 20 years there will be new pensions. True, this second one will be smaller. But it could bring the total retirement income at 61 to 65 years of age to $20,000 annually.

This is the trend. It's under way and should not be ignored nor deemed any more impossible than the two-car garage.

It is inevitable because coupled with the terminal syndrome is the parity complex. Me-too-ism. Each city department everywhere wants what the other got -- and since teachers, fire fighters, police and social welfare workers are in strategic positions they lead the way.

As for the private sector, just look at the United Auto Workers' gain of "$500 at 30 and out." Thus after 30 years on the job, the workers can retire at about $125 a week, sometime in his or her mid to late 50s under the new contract.

Obviously the old retirement-at-65 tradition has been racked. Obviously this auto agreement is only the beginning.

So the pension funds, financed mostly by the employer, private or or public, will become vast pools of cash. Just look at the most famous, or call it notorious, fund, the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund operation. It has some $800 million.

Pension funds, which invest about $8 billion a year in securities, can swing the stock market. So whoever controls the funds can influence financial trends.

After all, even with the cost of living what it is, $130 billion (with $15 billion more pouring in each year, and not too much going out because almost everyone you meet these days is under 25) and is a lot of money. And where will it all come from?

Charleston Dogwood-Azalea Tour April 24-25

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Dogwood and Azalea Tour April 24 and 25 promises to be a spectacular, fun-filled weekend, according to Dr. Lowell Nicholas, chairman of the third annual event.

Expanding the list of activities from last year's tour weekend has occupied the planning committee this year, Dr. Nicholas said, with the result that dozens of new "things to do and see" will be offered to the city's 1971 visitors.

Last year an estimated 3,000 persons came to Charleston to see the city's magnificent springtime displays of flowering dogwooed, redbud and azalea.

At midway in the tour route is the E. Charles Rowling City Park, which will be the scene of most of the tour weekend activities. Here are just a few highlights of the activities in the park most of which will be available Sunday afternoon.

. Arts and Crafts Show - 75 artists and craftsmen exhibiting painting, pottery, china painting, woodcarving, candle making, miniature painting, sculpture, portrait sketching, copper enameling, lithography, ceramics, and hand-tooling of leather. (Saturday and Sunday afternoons).

. Surrey and buggy rides along the tour route:

. Antique car show.

. Marionette shows by the Lambert Puppeteers ofCape Girardeau and the Junior Class of Cape Central High School.

. Pony rides

. Azalea Prince and Princess Contest at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

. Shy diving exhibitions every hour Sunday afternoon by the Bootheel Skydivers of Kennett.

. A dog show Sunday afternoon featuring prizes for 20 categories of pooches, including: Shaggiest, largest, smallest, whitest, blackest, best behaved, longest tail, shortest tail, cutest, longest ears, bushiest tail, happiest, saddest, most different colors, longest body, shortest legs, shiniest coat, most bowlegged, longest hair, and shortest hair.

. Two white elephant booths and two crafts booths

. A balloon-busting game booth

. A booth for the sale of cards, recipe cards, place mats and other items.

. A Sesquicentennial booth.

. A clown on the park grounds

. A "fishing" booth, and

. Entertainment by local talent, including the Texas Benders and The Spanish Fleas.

Also on tap for the weekend, but not at the park grounds, are these events:

. A pony-pulling contest on the A. D. Simpson Park grounds Saturday night.

. A children's art show from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Warren E. Hearnes School on Plant Road.

. A skeet shoot sponsored by the Mississippi County Gun Club on Highway 62, west, Sunday.

. A promotion by Charleston merchants will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday, when a plane will release one thousand ping-pong balls over the downtown area. Some of the balls will have the name of a store written on them, these may be turned in for prizes at the respective places of business.

Tour information booths will be set up at two locations this year, at the Junior High School on South Main Street and on the front lawn of the A. L. Story home on East Marshall Street. (Both are locatd on Business Route I-57). Volunteers will be on hand at both booths to assist out-of-town visitors from 1 to 5 p.m. on both days of the tour. Free tour maps will be provided at the booths.

The chairman said he hopes residents from throughout the Mid-South will come to Charleston for the annual tour. "The floral displays, built up over a 20-year period through the yearly shrubbery sales of the local Molly French Garden Clyb, are now among the most lovely to be seen anywhere in the nation," Dr. Nicholas said.

"The people of Charleston want to share this springtime finery with anyone who appreciates floral beauty," he added. "And from the list of activities, you can see that there will be plenty to keep visitors happy after they have seen the flowers."

Ann Landers

No Disaster Because Child Isn't Beautiful

Dear Ann Landers: I could never talk to anyone about this problem and I MUST tell it to somebody. It is getting me down.

My husband and I have been married 10 years. Our son, who is now 8, is a very handsome boy. He has my husband's eyes and smile, my nose, a great shaped head and a strong jawline. Everyone remarks on his good looks.

Our daughter is two years old, and I am sorry to say she is the homeliest child I have ever seen.Nature really played a dirty trick on us. It would have been much better if the boy had beenhomely and the girl had been good looking. A girl needs beauty -- a boy doesn't.

Our daughter inherited the worse features of both my husband and me. When people see her they don't know what to say. Occasionally someone will ask, "Is that YOUR child, or is she adopted?" I know what they are driving at.

When our daughter is older we can have her protruding ears fixed, her chin built up and her nose remolded. Hopefully she will have a good figure. If she doesn't, there are several things a girl can do. But the growing up years are going to be very hard on this pathetic child. Please tell me how to face the future cheerfully. If you could name some movie stars who were homely youngsters, it would help a lot --- Star Crossed

Dear Crossed: The pathetic one in the family is you --- not your daughter. How sad that you attach so much importance to good looks. I hope you get your thinking squared away befory you transmit your anxieties to the little girl --- if you haven't done so already. How dreadful for a child to feel that she has let her mother down because she isn't beautiful. Get some counseling, Mother. You've got a geranium in your cranium.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman in our club made an announcement at the last meeting that her daughter had telephoned her the night before from New Jersey to tell her the good news. She accepted a ring and is going to marry a doctor. Everyone said, "Congratulations," and "Isn't that wonderful," and how nice that Rosalie is getting such a catch. I myself was making plans to give a kitchen shower for Rosalie when I heard the real story. Her finance is a DENTIST!

I telephoned my friend and asked her straight out why she said "Doctor" when he is only a dentist. She got mad and yelled, "A dentist IS a doctor." I told her she knew perfectly well what I meant. She hung up on me. Will you please tell me who is right? I know I am but I want to hear it from you. --- Trouble in Shaker Heights

Dear Shaker: A dentist is a doctor and Rosalie's mother has every right to call him a doctor if she wants to.

Dear Ann Landers: When two older women live together, say two widowed sisters, or a mother and a daughter, or even two friends, and a card is sent for both -- such as a Christmas card or an Easter greeting, or a letter -- whose name should appear on the envelope first? We have had two long discussions about this at our weekly card club. Some members feel the older person's name should be first, others say the named should be alphabetized. What do you think? --- One of Two

Dear One: I must confess I have never given this a thought. And now that I have thought about it, would you believe I don't think it makes a darned bit of difference? Go back and tell your club they need a project.

Give in or lose him ... when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Woman Chairman Of SBA Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mary Lou Grier beats everybody to the joke about being the plumber's best friend.

She admits to being a dripping-faucet expert—and president—manager of a plumbing supply firm in Boerne, Tex.

Today she takes on a new job: chairman of the 85-member National Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration.

Mrs. Grier is long on expertise in politics—she's one of five vice presidents of the Texas Republican Party—but she's been in business for herself only about 18 months.

Her husband, baxter, would have to be called a big businessman. He's executive vice president of one of San Antonio's major industries, the Alamo Iron Works.

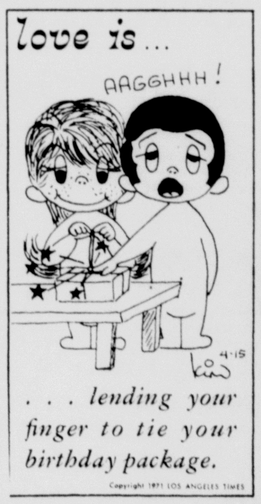
"I always believed in the free-enterprise system and I just felt this was an opportunity to do something challenging," Mrs. Grier said in an interview Tuesday. "I'm the plumber's friend."

Last April she was named to the SBA's advisory council as an at-large member for the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

The average person thinks of the SBA as strictly a lending agency, Mrs. Grier said, and doesn't know that a big hunk of the time is spent in giving free advice.

"The typical small-town businessman just doesn't know the elements of doing business, even of keeping books," she said, "and suddenly they find they're in difficulty and they don't know why."

The 46-year-old Mrs. Grier calls small business the backbone of the nation and says there's still room for repeats of the Horatio Alger, self-made tycoon story.



Boston, Mass., because of its many cultural institutions, is sometimes called the "Athens of America."

Birds Rip Dodgers, Royals Lose to Angels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis assaulted three Los Angeles pitchers for 12 hits, including home runs by Jim Beauchamp and Lou Brock, to defeat the Dodgers 7-1 on the West Coast Tuesday night.

The Kansas City Royals led the California Angels 1-0 going into the seventh inning when Jerry Moses doubled to score the tieing run. Minutes later, pinch hitter Tony Gonzales slapped a bat-handle triple with the bases loaded and the Angels shut out the Royals the rest of the way for a 4-1 victory.

Beauchamp's homer broke a scoreless duel between the Cards Jerry Reuss and the Dodgers Claude Osteen in the fifth. The cards picked up two more runs in the sixth, and two each in the eighth and ninth.

Beauchamp and Brock each had three hits and Ted Simmons and Beauchamp each drove in two runs.

The Dodgers scored their only run in the seventh on a basesloaded sacrifice fly with one out.

Reuss now is 1-1 and Osteen 2-1.

The Kansas City loss was charged to Jim Rooker, 1-2. Clyde Wright, 1-2, was the winner with relief help from Mel Queen who retired the last five Royal batters in order.

The Royals and Angels meet again tonight in Municipal Stadium with Bruce Delcanton scheduled to open for Kansas City and Tom Murphy for California.

Reggie Cleveland will open for the Cardinals in Los Angeles tonight against Don Sutton of the Dodgers.

Reliever Knowles Gets Support, Senators Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The telephone rang in the Washington bullpen and Darold Knowles got up to start throwing. The scoreboard showed the Senators trailing 5-0—a fairly safe situation for Knowles, who is one of baseball's premier relief pitchers, but not one of its luckiest.

Knowles logged 27 saves and a 2.04 earned run average last season. The numbers are more than respectable until you get to his record, which was a woeful 2-14.

Ted Williams, manager of the Senators, called it the phoniest record in baseball history. Knowles called it a few other things.

The problem was Knowles' knack for not getting any runs from the Senators to support his pitching. He'd enter tied games, hold the opposition scoreless for a couple of innings and then get nicked for a run and the loss. Washington rarely scored for him.

But this is a brand new season and Knowles is the proud owner of a glittering 2-0 record. He recorded his second victory in a week Wednesday night when the Senators, ignoring the fact that he was the pitcher of record, exploded for six runs in the bottom of the seventh inning and a 6-5 victory over Boston.

In other American League action Wednesday, Baltimore blanked Cleveland 3-0, New York rapped Detroit 8-4, Milwaukee shut out Chicago 2-0, Oakland took Minnesota 6-1 and California dropped Kansas City 4-1.

In the National League, San Francisco edged Houston 2-1, Philadelphia topped Pittsburgh 6-5, Cincinnati battered Atlanta 8-3 and St. Louis clouted Los Angeles 7-1. New York at Montreal and Chicago at San Diego were both postponed by bad weather.

Knowles hasn't given up a run in 5 1-3 innings spread over three games. But when he mowed downthe Red Sox in the top of the seventh Wednesday night, it hardly seemed important since Washington trailed by five runs.

Suddenly, though, it became very important as Washington rallied. Mike Epstein opened with a walk and singles by Joe Foy, Frank Howard and Richie Scheinblum kayoed Mike Nagy, who had been working on a two-hit shutout until then.

An error by reliever Bob Bolin loaded the bases and then Bolin walked Tom McCraw and Elliot Maddox on eight pitches, forcing two more runs home. Tim Cullen followed with a single driving home Washington's tying and winning runs and making a winner of the perennial loser, Knowles.

Mike Cuellar spun a four-hitter and Boog Powell bombed a two-run homer to move Baltimore past Cleveland. The Orioles have won five of six games and have had four complete game efforts by their pitching staff.

Powell's two-run shot jolted loser Sam McDowell in the third inning and Paul Blair doubled home the Birds' other run in the sixth.

Felipe Alou, making his debut for the Yankees, tagged a fourth inning homer that touched off a four-run New York rally in the victory over Detroit. Winning pitcher Fritz Peterson singled in one run in that rally and drove in another when he drew a bases-loaded walk later in the game.

Dick McAuliffe homered for the Tigers.

Rookie Jim Slaton combined with Marcelino Lopez and Ken Sanders to shut out Chicago on three hits for Milwaukee. Slaton limited the White Sox to three singles over six innings before leaving for a pinch hitter and then Lopez and Sanders finished up.

Cape Central Bottles Bulldogs, 9 to 0

The VFW Stadium was the scene of the downfall of the Bulldogs as Hogan of Cape Girardeau Central shut out the Dogs while the Tigers put nine runs on the board to take home a 9-0 baseball victory.

Not only was Hogan a pain in the side of the Sikeston batsman but the fielding plays of the Bulldogs produced six errors, two of which came in the first inning.

In the first inning seven Tigers made trips to the plate and before Sikeston could put out this early fire they were down 2-0. One-two - three was the manner in which the Sikeston batsmen went to and from the plate as Hogan and company disposed of the Dogs 1-2-3.

Second inning was a bit different as only three Tigers made the journey to the plate and were turned back 1-2-3 with two of them being strikeouts. Sikeston was again unable to cross the plate in its frame and went into the third trailing 2-0.

And so the game went for the third inning with neither team making progress. The Bulldogs recorded one of their three hits in the game when Evans slashed a single but was left on ase.

The fourth inning was again the way Cape Central wanted it. The Tigers crossed the plate two times and held the Dogs scoreless. The Bulldogs were trailing, 4-0, going into the fifth inning.

Neither squad could make progress in the fifth and the score remained 4-0 going into the sixth inning.

Four Cape Central Tigers crossed the plate in a big sixth inning for Cape Central. The Tigers went into the lead, 8-0, and kept their lead going into the ninth inning when Sikeston failed to score in the eighth.

Pushing across one last run in the ninth the Tigers used it as insurance. Hogan again shone for the Tigers, striking out two Sikestonians in the last inning to cinch his shutout victory.

Hogan struck out 11 and walked one man in working for his shutout. He went the distance for Cape.

Losing pitcher was Sikeston ace McDowell.

Extra base hits went to two Cape Central payers, Deurach, who had a triple in the sixth, and Schlick, who had a double in the fourth.

The three hits of Sikeston were singles made by Evans, Leffler, and Johnson. Three Sikeston hurlers saw action in Wednesday's contest with McDowell, Blankenship and Miller seeing mound duty.

Friday the Bulldogs journey to Lilbourn to battle the Panthers in an afternoon game. The Dogs' record for the season is 3-2.

Bullets, Lakers Come Alive in NBA Playoffs

All of a sudden the Baltimore Bullets and Los Angeles Lakers are very much alive in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bullets walloped the champion New York Knicks 101-80 Wednesday night to tie the Eastern Conference final at 2-2. The Lakers similarly whacked the milwaukee Bucks 118-107 to cut the Bucks' lead in the Western Conference final to 2-1.

In the American Basketball Association playoffs the Indiana Pacers drubbed the Utah Stars 120-107 to even their West Division final at 1-1.

The Bullets, who had walloped the Knicks 114-88 Sunday, humiliated the NBA champs for the second straight time at Baltimore. Led by Jack Marin's 27 points they took command in the first quarter and were nver headed. They turned the game into a rout in the final period.

The fifth game will be played in New York Friday and the Knicks have cause for worry. Willis Reed, their star, reinjured his right shoulder, scored only 14 points, and sat out the last seven minutes.

Wilt Chamberlain, who scored 24 points and grabbed 24 rebounds, led the Lakers, who broke open a close game by surging to a 17-point lead in the second half over the Bucks.

Pat Riley, subbing for Keith Erickson, who underwent an appendectomy Sunday, also scored 24 points for the Lakers as did Gail Goodrich and Happy Hairston. Bob Dandridge led the Bucks with 25 points. Lew Alcindor added 20.

Jackson Indians Stings Dexter

DEXTER — Playing the role of the spoiler the Jackson Indians stung the Bearcat track team, 78-58. Dexter also dropped the junior varsity match, 60 to 42, to a persistent Indian crew.

Neal of Jackson was the thorn in the side of the Dexter thinclads as he placed number one in three events. Neal won the pole vault with a twelve feet seven inch effort, claimed the high hurdles with a 17.2 second showing and the 440-yard dash with a 53.9 running.

Bench Batters Atlanta, Cincy Sweeps Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Bench took some extra batting practice in Atlanta Stadium.

Wasn't it nice of the Braves to supply the pitchers:

Cincinnati's most valuable catcher topped off a series of fence wrecking, ripening his batting average with two singles and a home run Wednesday night as the Reds pasted the Braves 8-3.

The Bench barrage, which helped the defending National League champions sweep the three-game set, included a total four homers of his seven hits, seven runs knocked in and six scored.

His singles Wednesday night were against long-time knuckleball nemesis Phil Niekro and boosted Bench's morale as well as his hitting percentage.

"Already I've had a good year against Niekro,' I said Bench, whose mark jumped from .250 to .379 with this sensational series." "He's the toughest pitcher for me to hit.'

Atlanta's Hank Aaron also did a job on the Cincinnati staff, including two homers Wednesday night that gave him three for the series. Hammerin' Hank, who started the series with an un-Aaron-like .100 average, skied to .242 with a 6-for-13 performance, 6 RBI and 3 runs scored.

Philadelphia trimmed Pittsburgh 6-5, San Francisco turned back Houston 2-1 and St. Louis beat Los Angeles 7-1 in the other National League games. Two contests were rained ut—Chicago at San Diego and New York at Montreal.

In the American League, Baltimore beat Cleveland 3-0; New York thumped Detroit 8-4; Milwaukee whipped Chicago 2-0; Oakland blasted Minnesota 6-1; Washington topped Boston 6-5 and California clipped Kansas City 4-1.

Tony Cloninger got his first victory of the year for Cincinnati, but had to be bailed out in the last three innings by Clay Carroll, a former Brave.

The Reds snapped a 2-2 tie with four runs in the third inning, opening with singles by Tony Perez and Bench. Willie Smith bounced to Niekro, who fielded the ball and threw it into center field, allowing Perez to score.

Hal McRay then drilled a two-run double to the fence and Tommy Helms got in the last run of the inning with a grounder that scored McRae.

Aaron, now only three homers away from the 600-career plateau, unloaded a two-run shot in the first inning then fired a solo blast into the left field seats in the fourth. It was the 38th time Aaron had smashed two four-baggers in a game.

Denny Doyle delivered a two-run single with the bases soaked in the last of the eighth as Philadelphia struck from behind. The Pirates had gone ahead 5-4 in the top of the frame when Al Oliver's forceout bouncer scored Manny Sanguillen.

The Pirates threatened in the ninth, but Dick Selma rescued Philadelphia by nipping the rally with men on first and second and one out.

Tito Fuentes' two-out single to center in the 11th inning drove in Frank Johnson with the winning run for San Francisco, which won its third straight game.

Dick Dietz opened the frame against reliever george Culver with a single. After a strikeout, Johnson forced Dietz, but took second on shortstop Roger Metzger's throwing error. After Alan Gallagher was intentionally walked, Fuentes hit a 2-2 offering into center and Johnson beat Cesar Cedeno's throw home.

Bobby Bonds gave San Francisco a 1-0 lead in the first with his second omer, but that was matched in the fifth when Bob Watson hit one for Houston.

Jim Beauchamp and Lou Brock each hit homers and knocked in two runs apiece for St. Louis and former Los Angeles infielder Ted Sizemore tormented the Dodgers with an RBI single and steal of home.

Beauchamp's bases-empty homer in the fifth broke a scoreless duel between St. Louis' Jerry Reuss and Los Angeles' Claude Osteen. The Cards added all the runs they needed with two in the sixth on a double by Ted Simmons and singles by Bock and Beauchamp.

Bernie Drops Thriller

BERNIE —Chuck Owens, ace righthander of the Bernie Mules, came in to relieve Walker in the third inning but the damage had been done and the Bernie Mules dropped their first baseball game of the season, 7-6, to the Clarkton Reindeer.

Clarkton jumped onto the pitching staff of Bernie for three runs in the first inning and added another run in the second inning to jump out to 4-0 lead going into the third inning.

Danny Stoelting, the winning pitcher, held the Mules scoreless until the fifth inning when the Mules began to make their move by scoring two runs in the bottom of the fifth to bring the score, 5-2.

The sixth inning was the downfall for Bernie. Two Reindeer crossed the plate and Bernie's hopes fell with them. In its half of the frame Bernie scored four runs but was still one run shy and the score stood 7-6 going into the final inning.

It was the second victory for the Reindeer in their third outing.

Winning pitcher was Danny Stoelting, (1-1) and the loser was Walker.

NYU to Drop Some Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — New York University, once a giant in college football, but which dropped the sport in 1952, now is considering dropping basketball and track because of financial troubles.

A spokesman said university officials decided at a closed meeting early this week to put the proposal before the school's senate on Thursday. If approved by the senate the proposal then would go to the Board of Trustees.

"In our present position we have to raise more money, cut costs or both," the spokesman said. "For a while there was some talk of eliminating all sports. Taking everything into account on team sports, scholarships, traveling expenses, low return, it is just too expensive"

Until the recently concluded 1971 season, in which the team lost 20 of 25 games followed by the resignation of coach Lou Rossini, the NYU Violets annually were among the foremost basketball teams in the country.

Thomas Twirls No-Hitter, Chaffee Outduels Kelly

CHAFFEE — Scott Thomas fired a no-hitter at the Kelly Hawks and came out the winning baseball pitcher as the Red Devils defeated the Hawks 1-0.

Jackson and Thomas hooked up in a pitchers' duel. Each walked two and hit one batter.

Chaffee scored the only run of the game in the bottom of the fifth inning when Crowden walked, went to third on the only hit of the game by Householder, the Red Devil third baseman and scored moments later on a wild pitch.

Thomas now holds a record of 3-1 for the season. Chaffee has a 2-1 Scott-Mississippi conference record.

Kelly is also 2-1 in the Scott-Mississippi conference.

Thomas defeated the Sikeston Bulldogs in an earlier game.

90 Attend Forum on Credit Law

MINER— The fair credit reporting act, a federal law which was passed "primarily to insure privacy in the exchange of credit information on individuals", was the subject of a forum at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday at the Ramada Inn. Approximately 90 Sikeston businessmen, merchants, and others attended.

John Martin, regional credit manager of AAA Credit Service, Cape Girardeau, conducted the forum. The St. Louis firm has branch offices in Cape Girardeau and Sikeston.

Martin said the new law, which will become effective April 25, will "in a small way, affect retailers, banks, and small loan companies."

"Some banks and small loan companies refuse giving consumer credit information because they fear they will be classified as a consumer reporting agency," he said.

Martin explained that "as long as you confine your information to your own personal ledger information, you won't need to worry about being considered a consumer reporting agency".

He said that the danger of a bank or loan company becoming a consumer reporting agency does exist if the bank or loan company gives out information from another service other than the credit bureau.

"This whole act is designed to protect the consumer," Martin said.

The primary objective of those who worked on development of the act was to produce a law that would satisfy the legitimate concerns of consumers without placing undue restrictions on credit granters and the credit reporting industry.

Martin said:

"If a farmer buys equipment for his farm, the law does not apply. If the farmer buys a car, then it does apply. If a person buys business insurance, the law does not apply."

JOHN MARTIN regional credit manager of the AAA Credit Service from Cape Girardeau, addressed citizens yesterday on the meaning of the fair credit reporting act.

He said that the person who is refused credit because of information received from a credit bureau, must be notified of the source of the information and its location.

"Any credit agency or user who does not comply with any section of the law can be sued for punitive and actual damages for willful non-compliance," he said.

The forum was concluded with a question and answer session and a banquet.

The First National Bank of Sikeston sponsored the forum.

Dear Charlie:

If it will make you feel any better, I am just as late on deadlines as I have been getting off this note to you.

I appreciated your thoughtfulness in sending me a copy of your huge, very well done progress edition. It was a product in which you should take great pride. We could use your advertising director here.

I have been designated to go to the A.P. Missouri meeting April 30—May 1 in St. Louis. Mary and I will look forward to seeing you there. It ain't Hawaii but it will be good to get out of here for a change of scenery. See you then.

Dear Editor,

Attorney General John C. Danforth should be congratulated for his part in the ousting of ex-sheriff Clyde Orton of Pemiscot county.

Missouri must be in bad shape if sheriffs, and state treasurers are found to be guilty in crime.

If govt. officials cannot abide by the law, then how do they expect the citizens to abide by them.

As for the recent attacks by U.S. senators and congressmen on J. Edgar Hoover, one wonders what these men have to hide??? These men are always asking President Nixon for all the facts on national policies. Perhaps we American citizens should ask J. Edgar Hoover for some facts on what is being said on the telephones of the griping senators. (If they are being tapped?)

Thomas Turns 79 With Bash In Blimp, Reunion With Rhino

MIAMI (AP)--World-roving newscaster Lowell Thomas celebrated his 79th birthday with a bash in a blimp and a reunion with a baby rhino which nipped the seat of his trousers.

"Each birthday, I try to find something I haven't done before," Thomas said. "I realized that with all the flying I've done, I missed completely the lighter-than-air adventure."

Thomas planned the two-hour blimp ride over Miami Tuesday with his wife and a few close friends, but his other new birthday experience--the rhino bite--was a surprise.

It happened before the blimp party, when Thomas visited a 1,500-pound rhinoceros named Mohan at Crandon Park Zoo.

Thomas offered the rhino a handful of green muchables and turned to say something to zoo director Gordon Hubbell.The rhino kept right on nibbling--at the seat of Thomas' pants."

Thomas starred Mohan in an as yet unscreened documentary rhino hunt in Neptal where the leathery-skinned creature was netted last year. Now Mohan lives in the zoo with an 800-pound cutie named Shanti and zoo officials hope for offspring.

"We hope they will mate," said Thomas. "But we'll have to be careful because rhinos are rather violent lovers. They've been known to kill each other."

Thomas recently completed a film on Siberia and is staying with his son in Hobe Sound. A head cold forced him to postpone the celebration planned on his birth date, April 6.

"I've been going places since 1914. It's my life. But I find I like cold countries now. The heat takes it out of you," he said.

On his 50th birthday, Thomas recalled, he tackled Mt. Washington on skis.

New Park Fee Plan Would Hike Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department has a plan that would cost the camping family much more for a season of tenting on the old federal campground.

Though the department's proposal has its origins with some members of Congress, the legislation still faces tough opposition.

First, the department recommends abandoning the Golden Eagle Passport, which for a $10 fee allows a carload of people admission to any park all year.

Instead, the department proposes a $4 annual permit for each member of a family, young children excepted, and a charge of $3 to $4 for each night's stay at a recreation area or campground.

For a family of five, with three teen-agers along, camping Friday and Saturday night for 10 summer weekends, the cost would be at least $80 instead of the present $10.

The department figures the new charges would bring in $25 million a year for buying and developing more federal recreation areas. The Golden Eagle program is bringing in $10 million.

The proposal faces its first test in the Senate and House Interior committees, with the House starting its hearings in May.

Both committees directed last year, as they extended the Golden Eagle program through 1971, that the department come up with recommendations for another fee system.

Littering Under Attack By Sheriff

Sheriff John Dennis said this morning that his office is investigating rubbish found along county roads and tracing it back to those who dumped it there. He said that 21 cases of illegal dumping have been traced and individuals have been ordered to clean up their litter. One arrest has been made and more will be made, according to Dennis.

The new policy is in line with an order from the county court to clean up Scott county roadways.

Dennis reports that county prisoners have been clearing brush from rural cemeteries and will soon start cleaning on the right-of-way along county roads.

The Watkins family cemetery near Benton cemetery and the Benton cemetery have been cleared of debris and cemeteries at Oran and Morley are scheduled for clearing next.

'Selling of Pentagon' Dispute Keeps Spreading

NEW YORK (AP) — The CBS News documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon," has set off a dispute involving three networks, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, influential congressmen, at least one major newspaper—and now a congressional inquiry.

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee subpoenaed the network to turn over "all film, workprints, outtakes, sound tape recordings, writtensscripts and-or transcripts,' including those which were not televised.

Dr. Frank Stanton, president of CBS, said the network would provide only material actually broadcast, adding that the demand "raised an unprecedented issue in the history of the relationship between the federal government and the press in this nation."

Both NBC and ABC issued statements Tuesday supporting CBS. NBC President Julian Goodman said the documentary was "a legitimate journalistic inquiry" and called the subpoena an "invasion of a basic, journalistic right.'

Elmer W. Lower, president of ABC News, said he opposed the subpoena, adding, "To adopt any other position would drastically handicap the effectiveness and integrity of any news organization."

The subpoena was issued by Rep. Harley O. Staggers, DW.Va., chairman of the committee and its special subcommittee on investigations. Both Staggers and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, had filed complaints with the Federal Communications Commission.

If CBS continues to refuse providing the material and if the House of Representatives should vote a contempt citation, it could result in a major court test of broadcast journalism's freedom.

The controversy at first was between CBS and Agnew, Hebert and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. But it has continued to spread to include others, among them the Washington Post.

The dispute could spread to other areas. Hebert complained to the Federal Communications Commission that CBS used film edited in a manner to discredit the military's public relations effort. Staggers also filed a complaint with the FCC and said he is considering a hearing by his special subcommittee on investigations.

CBS said in the program, aired first on Feb. 23 and again on March 23, that the military establishment was spending at least $30 million and possibly as much as $190 million on public relations.

The thrust of the documentary was that the Pentagon was using its public relations funds not only to inform but to persuade the public on vital national policies. It said, "Defending the country not just with arms but also with ideology, Pentagon propaganda insists on America's role as the cop on every beat in the world."

Complaints centered on charges that in at leazst two instances CBS rearranged statements by an Army colonel and by Asst. Secretary of Defense Daniel Z. Henkin. The effect, critics charged, was to substantially alter the emphasis and meaning of the statements.

Laird called the documentary "unprofessional."

After the first broadcast, Hebert termed it "the most misleading and damaging attack on our people over there that I have ever hard of." He said he had not seen it but had read about it in the newspapers.

A few days before the second showing, Agnew said in an address to the Middlesex Club in Boston March 18 that the show was "a subtle but vicious broadcaise against the nation's defense establishment' and that CBS had used questionable editing techniques.

Agnew said, "It is the CBS television network, not the Department of Defense, that leaves much to be desired in terms of 'the free flow of information.'"

Stanton replied that the network "stands behind' the program.

At a news conference the morning after his speech, Agnew said he had "no thoughts of intimidation' but wanted to tell the American people "that they cannot rely on CBS documentaries for facts. He said, "It's important to note that there was quite a bit of cutand-paste job done in that documantary" in which the sentences of a colonel were rearranged in sequence to seem to run together.

CBS rebroadcast the documentary March 23 and at the end included selected criticism from previous interviews with Agnew, Laird and Hebert and a rebuttal from Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News.

The vice president said the next day at a news conference at St. Louis that "I'm totally dissatisfied with ... with what they characterized as a ebuttal on the part of administration officials, who included myself.'

Agnew said he found it rather unusual that he should have the right of rebuttal without being able to decide which film clips would be used in rebuttal.

Church, State Separation Issue Fueled by Nixon Plans

By Editorial Research Reports

President Nixon's latest revenue-sharing proposal promises a boost in aid to the nation's 11,350 parochial schools. And like nearly all general education - aid proposals, this one will add new fuel to the never - ending hassle over the church - state separation issue.

In a special message to Congress, April 6, the President proposed turning $3 billion of federal education funds over to the states, provided that: (1) more than half the money go to serve disadvantaged children, and (2) all forms of educational services be made available to students in nonpublic schools. The President repeated a position he has taken previously that parochial schools "bear a significant share of the cost and effort" of educating American children, hence are entitled to a share of public education -aid funds.

Opponents of parochiaid were quick to react. Joseph B. Robison, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, contended that diversion of more federal funds to nonpublic schools would be "bad for government, bad for religion and bad for education." A spokesman for Americans United for Separation of Church and State declared: "Public schools, particularly in the inner city, are facing serious financial problems. These schools need every dollar of the public money that is being diverted to church institutions."

Litigation in states where tax funds have been made available for church-school aid has been chronic since passage of the Elementary and Secondary School Act of 1965. Benefits to private schools under this act are limited. But the law broke the dam, and many states enacted new provisions for nonpublic school aid. Just as promptly, opposing groups took action to stem thetide. According to Americans United, there has been a continuing log of 20 to 30 pending cases challenging the constitutionality of parochiaid. One of these cases is now before the U.S. Supreme Court and a landmark decision is expected.

New private school-aid laws have also been challenged by petitioning for referenda to repeal them. Michigan voters approved on Nov. 3 a constitutional amendment forbidding state aid to nonpublic schools. The Michigan Supreme Court ruled early this year that the amendment does not cut off auxiliary services. Still permitted is payment of teachers of secular subjects in parochial schools IF the teachers and the teaching programs are totally under the control of public authorities. Americans United will petition for a referendum to knock down a program approved by the Maryland legislature on April 1 to give financial aid to families of private school children.

The situation is obviously one of rising pressures both for and against more direct aid to parochial schools. Fear of the huge load it would dump on public schools if the Catholics closed down their parish schools constitutes a powerful pressure for more aid. President Nixon warned a year ago that if the parochial schools, with their 4.3 million students, collapsed, it would put a $4 billion -a -year burden on the taxpayer in addition to demanding $5 billion for new facilities.

The financial difficulties of the church schools are well-known. Some Catholics question whether they are worth their cost, even with more public aid. "With a growing group of Catholics," writes the managing editor of the liberal Catholic weekly COMMONWEAL, "I feel that parochial schools have served their exalted purposes ... [and] are now hindrance rather than help to Catholicism." Those who share this view believe the parish church could put its money and its energy to better use on other forms of educational and spiritual work.

Choral Festival Set for Friday

CAPE GIRARDEAU--About 650 high school vocal music students from the Southeast Missouri State College service area will be on the campus Friday for the college's annual choral festival, sponsored by the division of music.

The students will be divided into two groups, according to Gordon Corwin of the music faculty at the college, a mixed chorus of about 450 and a girls' chorus of about 200.

Corwin and Paul Kirk, also of the music faculty, are in charge of arrangements for the festival.

Each group will rehearse throughout the morning and afternoon under the direction of a guest clinician, and the festival will culminate with a concert in the auditorium of Academic Hall on the campus beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The concert, free and open to the public, will also feature the concert choir of Poplar Bluff High School, according to Corwin, who said each year one high school choir is invited to take part in the concert as special guests of the festival.

Guest clinician for the mixed chorus will be Dr. Warren Angel, chairman of the Music Division at Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, Okla. Dr. Sally Montour, professor of music at Georgia State University in Atlanta, will be guest clinician for the girls' chorus.

Participants in the festival are picked by the choral directors at each high school, Corwin said. High schools invited are allocated a maximum number of participants based on their size and music enrollment, he added.

Interview on Radials With Frank Apelle

NEW YORK — Frank, we understand that you are conducting an indepentent test involving some pretty hard driving.

We are running a test for the Environmental Protection Agency which took over from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. We're accumulating mileage on three makes of cars, Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth. We're putting 50,000 miles on 36 cars to test their emission control equipment. These cars run 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and they operate on an average speed of about 32 miles an hour. The speed actually varies on the race track anywhere from as low as 30 miles an hour to as high as 70. They have periods where they stop for 15 or 20 seconds. We'll be putting a total of 1.8 million miles on these cars altogether, so you can see that we're going to get a lot of chance to try these tires out.

Where do you get your drivers.

They're just ordinary people that we've hired for this program that live in the area.

In the process of getting into the test program, we had to bid for the program. I originally estimated that we were going to get about 15,000 miles out of the tires. We found out running on this 18 degree bank at these low speeds that the mileage with the best bias belted tires was anywhere from 2,100 miles to an absolute maximum on the easiest cycle of 11,000 miles. This really shot my figures. We purchased a set of B. F. Goodrich Radials and ran some rapid accumulation miles on them to see how they would work out. The worst we've gotten out of one of the radials is about 18,000 miles and it looks like the best ones are going to go in the vicinity of 30,000 miles or better.

One of the reasons that we're wearing tires rapidly here, particularly the bias belted tires, is because the cars are running so slow on that 18 degree bank and and they're scrubbing off the front tires. The low slip angle of the radials is giving us the excellent mileage. The tire does bit better and doesn't slide as much.

Why did you go to B. F. Goodrich Lifesaver Radials?

First of all, I've been running radial tires on various imported cars since about 1957. I've had lots of experience with Michelin and Pirelli and a little bit of experience with Dunlop. I did some check and some fellas at Ford and [illegible] people told me that the best American radial at this time was the Goodrich. So I obtained a set and we tested them. I'll have to say that they've performed far better than I expected them to.

Did this have any effect on the gas mileage, switching to the Lifesaver Radial tire?

Yes. The gas mileage compared to our best bias-belted tire is about 11% better. This is better than I anticipated. I really expected 5 or 6%. We're going to save in excess of $5,000 just on gasoline. That's a significant amount.

Would you like to make a direct comparison between the Pirelli, the Michelin and the LifesaverRadial?

Yes, In the case of the Michelin, you've got a steel-belted radial which gives excellent wear qualities but has a little bit of a stability problem at high speeds and can cause the car to have rapid break-away. In the Pirelli, you have a far better handling tire, but you don't have the wearing qualities. And the Pirelli is not nearly as good as the Michelin in the wet. I've got a set of the Lifesavers on my own company car.

Student Newspaper Wins High Marks

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The student newspaper at Southeast Missouri State College, The Capaha Arrow, has received within the last two weeks a first class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press and a first place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Both associations judged The Arrow in comparison with commonly-accepted journalistic standards and with the performance of newspapers on other campus with about the same enrollment as Southeast Missouri State.

In both cases the ratings are the highest an individual newspaper can receive with the exception of a very few student publications rates All-American by the ACP and Medalist by the CSPA.

The ratings reflected the judges' evaluation of the newspaper's performance in such areas as content and coverage, writing and editing, editorial leadership, physical appearance, and photography.

The ACP of the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis reviewed all issues of The Arrow from September through December of 1970. The CSPA of Columbia University in New York ranked the newspaper on the basis of all issues from Easter, 1970, through January, 1971.

While the judges of both association pointed out a number of areas which could be improved, they also commented positively on the newspaper.

The ACP judge liked the makeup of the inside news pages and also the content of Arrow editorials. He said, "Your editorials are alert to the news and issues vital to students."

The CSPA judge said, "The Capaha Arrow reflects the excellent care given copy and other elements by editors and writers. This is a well-organized, smartly-handled publication SEMO students should appreciate."

He also commended the newspaper for having "the distinction of being in that small company of college papers still dedicated to the proposition that a newspaper's mission is to relate the news of interest and importance to its readers. You do a top job in coverage."

Students Will Give Concert

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Southeast Missouri State College chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, professional music fraternity, will team up April 22 with the chapter from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale for a concert of contemporary music, much of it written by the students themselves.

Joe Pappas, president of the Southeast Missouri State chapter, said the annual concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Academic Hall on the Southeast Missouri State campus. It is free and open to the public.

Pappas, a junior from Festus, himself composed the music for two of the five numbers which will comprise the Southeast Missouri State portion of the concert.

One is a vocal solo with organ accompaniment entitled "Lord Hear My Prayer." The other is a brass choir number entitled "Fantasia."

Other Southeast Missouri State students who composed music for the concert are Melvin Oberhaus of Union, Donna Mesler of Kirkwood, Dave Cozby of Jonesboro, Ill., and Eugene Hughes of St. Louis.

Oberhaus wrote "Fantasy in Fifths" for a trumpet quartet. Hughes set the words of T. S. Eliot's "The Hollow Men" to music for a vocal solo with piano accompaniment.

Miss Mesler and Cozby collaborated on "Dedication to the Love We Share," a vocal solo with piano and brass accompaniment.

Pappas said the portion of the program to be presented by the SIU group was not complete, but that it would include student numbers as well as original works by SIU faculty members.

The concert will last from an hour to an hour and a half, Pappas said.

COLD STORAGE

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Babies on ice are a prospect for the future. University researcher Dr. Robert Edwards predicts couples will be able to delay the birth of children by having their eggs and semen stored in ice.

"Deep-freeze babies are just one of the science-fiction-like possibilities growing out of startling progress made by British researchers," Dr. Edwards says.

The Liberty Bell is permanently housed in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.

Community Development Plan Designed to Reduce Red Tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Part of the maze facing local governments in search of federal aid would melt away, says President Nixon, if Congress permits him to put $9 billion worth of programs in a new Department of Community Development.

With the new department, the President says, communities such as Monroe, Ohio, would no longer have to apply for sewer aid to three federal agencies with regional offices in three separate cities.

Cities such as Cambridge, Mass., would be spared filing each year 134 separate federal and 17 state urban aid applications under 153 different sets of regulations.

The Nixon plan would gather related programs in five departments and three agencies into the proposed Community Development Department. Added to the core of the present Department of Housing and Urban Development would be highway and mass transit programs from the Department of Transportation; development programs from the Commerce Department; rural housing, water and sewer, and electrification programs from the Agriculture Department; and library grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Other programs, such as community action, would come from the Office of Economic Opportunity, Small Business Administration, and Appalachian Regional Commission.

Herein a question-and-answer format is the administration's view of how the department would operate and its advantages.

Q. What's wrong with things the way they are?

A. There is no single government organization with the responsibility and authority to coordinate and direct federal assistance for community development. For example, HUD and Agriculture each have programs for housing, water and sewer lines, and recreational areas.

As a result, separate departments must come up with piecemeal approaches to the problem's solutions.

Q. How would the new organization help local governments?

A. They would draw up one comprehensive development plan, including transportation, housing, and community facilities and service, and get funds from one federal agency rather than eight.

Q. How will the department promote more orderly national development?

A. The impact of proposed transportation systems, for example, on land utilization, housing patterns, and local economic development can be determined by a single department.

Q. Is this department for big cities only?

A. No. The Department would aid smaller towns and rural areas, too.

Q. What types of aid would be available?

A. Planning money and technical assistance to strengthen local governments; programs, such as community action, to encourage citizen movements for civic improvement; money for construction of mass transit systems, highways, subsidized housing, water and sewer lines, libraries, parks and electrical and telephone lines; flood, riot, and crime insurance.

Q. What would be the major components of the department?

A. An urban and rural development administration to build up state and local government, to encourage individual participation in community development, and to provide basic public facilities.

A community transportation administration to develop balanced and integrated transportation systems, including public transit and highways.

Housing administration to produce, manage and maintain subsidized housing.

Q. How big would the department be?

A. A projected first-year budget of $9.7 billion with some 30,000 employes.

Take to the sky.

Reception for Artist, Sunday

DEXTER — "A Meet the Artist Reception" will be held Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Dexter library civic center to open an exhibit by Mrs. Carole Myers, a professional artist from St. Louis.

She is nearing the completion of a three-months artist in residence program in Stoddard county schools and communities. This event will start the activities of National Library Week for the Dexter public library.

Stoddard county was selected as one of the locations in Missouri to have a professional artist-in-residence for three months. This grant came through funds from the National Endowment on the Arts.

Mrs. Myers has won 235 awards including the Watercolor U.S.A. traveling exhibit on three different occasions. Her work was chosen by the Department of State for the "Art in the Embassies" program. In April, she was awarded a prize for a work titled, "January Storm," at the St. Louis Artists Build annual water-color and pastel exhibit. In the Mid-south Exhibition at the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery in Memphis, two of her paintings were among the 132 selected for exhibit. Three of her works were among the 123 selected from entries at the Artists Annual Exhibition, Philbrook Arts Center in Tulsa this spring.

The exhibit will feature paintings completed by Mrs. Myers since she has been in Stoddard county and prize winning selections.

The public is invited to attend.

The exhibit will remain on display during Nation Library Week, Sunday through Saturday, and can bee seen Monday through Friday from noon to 5 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 a.m.

School groups wishing to view the exhibit are asked to contact the library in advance by calling Mrs. Grundy Turlington, librarian, at 624-3764.

Nursing Test Set for Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Dent Test, a battery of psychological tests dealing with scholastic aptitudes, nursing aptitudes, and personality factors, will be given Saturday to students seeking to enter the two-year, associate of arts degree nursing program at Southeast Missouri State College.

This is the final testing session for this academic year according to Dr. Helen Kinney, head of the department of nursing education at Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Kinney said any student desiring admission to the nursing program at the college should plan to take the test on this day. Satisfactory performance on the test or completion of a remedial program is a requirement before a potential nursing student can be admitted to the Southeast Missouri State program.

The testing will begin promptly at 8 a.m. in Room 116 of Academic Hall on the campus and be completed about noon or 12:30 p.m. Immediately following the test, the potential nursing students will meet with the college's nursing faculty and will have an opportunity to discuss the college's program and ask questions.

Dr. Kinney said the Dent Test identifies students' weaknesses in basic skills such as reading, spelling and arithmetic which will handicap them in the nursing program. It also assesses general nursing aptitudes.

The results of the test are used to counsel applicants regarding remedial measures that can be taken prior to enrolling in the nursing program. The test is scored by a specialized company and all information is treated confidentially.

Dr. Kinney said no preparation is necessary for the test.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

There's a great past ahead for the guy who brags about an assured future.

Nothing gets soiled faster than a white lie.

People who say "Thank goodness, it's the last blizzard for the season" just don't live where we do.

MIKE JENSEN

SHOW & TELL

Well movie-fans tonight is the night. Tonight is the world series, and the super-bowl of the movie industry rolled into one. Several careers are at stake and a great deal of money will hang in the balance when Hollywood presents its Academy Awards.

Since the movies in Sikeston didn't change last night I thought I might take this small opportunity to pick my choices in a few categories and see if you might agree. We all have our personal favorites, so you may differ greatly in your choices from mine, but that's the American way isn't it.

George C. Scott has created more excitement over this year's awards than any in several years. Mr. Scott says he doesn't want the "phoney" award and wouldn't take it if they gave it to him. I still think his performance as "Patton" was the best of the year and Hollywood should give the Oscar to him regardless.

Carrie Snodgress, despite her name, should be a walk-away favorite for Best Actress honors. Her performance in "Dairy of a Mad Housewife" outshone any other entry and I pick her all the way.

For Best Supporting Actor I'm going to make a guess because I haven't seen the movie, but I hope Chief Dan George from the movie "Little Big Man" is the winner. I've read that his portrayal was remarkable and he's my choice.

Best Supporting Actress should not even be close. Karen Black was without a doubt the greatest thing around as Jack Nicholson dumb girlfriend in "Five Easy Pieces" I'd bet money on this one. Karen Black all the way.

Robert Altman is my pick for best director for his fine work on "M*A*S*H*".

For movie of the year I'm afraid to say. I hope that "M*A*S*H*" wins, but the competition is pretty tough.

Oh well, if you see me on the street next week and I miss all of my picks, please don't say any cute remarks, just keep your laughter to yourself and I promise to stick to reviewing movies instead of looking into crystal balls.

Under Twenty

STAR GAZING
By Kurt Lassen

If you're a stereo headset fan, don't wear them while driving, particularly in Houston, Texas. The fine can go as high as $200 if a new ordinance passes.

Among gold record winners are WILSON PICKETT for his "Don't Let The Green Grass Fool You," THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY (their second) for "Up To Date," ANDY WILLIAMS (his 14th) for his "Love Story" album.

Ex-Beatle PAUL McCARTNEY's "Another Day" riding high on the British charts as is NEIL DIAMOND's "Sweet Caroline" and "Sweet Lord" by another ex-Beatle, GEORGE HARRISON. Also in London, THE ROLLING STONES taped two television shows at the same time using five cameras before a live audience.

DAVID CASSIDY, who has really hit it big since his PARTRIDGE FAMILY show, has racked up capacity audiences on his personal appearance debut in Seattle and Portland. THE CARPENTERS are being touted as possibilities for an Academy Award for their "For All We Know" which is the theme for the film, "Lovers and Other Strangers."

Fate takes strange twists. When the FIFTH DIMENSION were first getting started, they auditioned for DEAN MARTIN who told them they weren't ready. Now DEAN has announced that they've been signed for an 18-month contract to play his Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas, headlining in the DEAN MARTIN PRESENTS series.

FREDA PAYNE ("Band Of Gold") playing Paris later this month. ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK getting set for a five-month tour of the United States beginning May 6. He'll work coast to coast. TOM JONES just started his six-month tour of the United States and Canada with a sell out in Miami. Trip includes some 25 one-nighters.

HERB ALPERT missing from the performing recording scene for a while, will be back in a pop symphony entitled "Wings" with MICHEL COLOMBIER in which ALPERT solos under MICHEL's arranging and conducting. PAUL ANKA also taking the Paris route after completing his new single, "You're Some Kind Of Friend" backed with "Why Are You Leaning On Me."

Billy Joe Thomas was born 24 years ago in Houston, Texas.

B. J. was chosen by Burt Bacharach and Hal David to sing their tune, "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head," in the Paul Newman film "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." Since then, "Raindrops" was not only the number one record in the country, but has sold well over three million copies, and won the Academy Award for "Best Song." "I Just Can't Help Believing" was top 10 on the national charts, and his next single, "Most Of All" looks like it will follow suit.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Nixon Uses White House Dinners To Raise GOP Funds; He Spreads Charm, Leaves, Aides Put Bite On Guests; FBI Probes Black Army; Some Say Its Drug Cure Works:

A SIKESTON LANDMARK came tumbling to its final resting place Wednesday when workmen began demolishing the old Christian Church building on South New Madrid Street.

Church Gives Way To Autos

By LEO SCHADE

The old First Christian church – more recently the Church of God of Prophecy – will be no more.

It has stood for 55 years downtown at the corner of New Madrid and Trotter streets.

Frank Ferrell and a demolition crew are razing the building and clearing debris on the church grounds.

The Christian church had its beginning in 1906 to 1915 with 18 charter members. A frame building was erected in 1910 at the rear of the lot.

Serving as ministers in the frame building, 1906, the Rev. Horace Sibrell, the Rev. Clarence Read; 1908, the Rev. Mr. Fields; 1911, the Rev. C. A. Burris; 1914, the Rev. J. B. Lockhart.

In 1911 the church built a basement for the brick building. Old members recall that the summer heat was almost unbearable. So a new church was begun overhead. The cornerstone was laid Nov. 19, 1914.

The church was dedicated June 20, 1915, with the Rev. George L. Sniveley, as speaker, and the Rev. I. H. Fuller as pastor. Church history records that both the Rev. Clarence Burton, pastor of First Methodist church, and the Rev. Sterling Brite, pastor of First Baptist church, adjourned their services early to assist in the dedication.

The downtown Christian church building was abandoned following the completion of an educational building on North Main street in 1956, following groundbreaking in October of 1955. A new sanctuary has since been built at this site.

The brick building was left vacant until the early 1960s when it was sold to the Church of God of Prophecy. Last year the property was sold to the city for $10,000 and will be used as a parking lot for the Civic Center, involving another downtown former church – the First Baptist – now being remodeled.

Other Christian church ministers:

1916-18, the Rev. John Wells and the Rev. J.C. Hoke; 1919, the Rev. R. M.Houston; 1920, the Rev. Cyrus Mitchell; 1921, the Rev. Mr. Morton and the Rev. Mr. Walker; 1923, the Rev. E. B. Hensley; 1930, the Rev. Mr. McFarland; 1931, the Rev. O. P. Bellinger; 1933-38, the Rev. W. W. Walker and Rev. R. M. Talbert;

1939-40, the Rev. R. S. Rains; 1941-42, the Rev. J. P. Read;1943-50, the Rev. R. M. Talbert; 1951-53, the Rev. George Atkins; 1954-60, the Rev. Wayne Davis;

Pastors of new church, 1960-66, the Rev. Myron Neal; 1967, the Rev. Durward Penry, the present minister.

THE OLD FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, erected in 1914-15, is being torn down to make room for a parking lot for the Civic Center.

Arrests Clear Up Burglaries At Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — The arrests Sunday of five juveniles, ages six through fifteen has solved several thefts.

Three boys breaking into parked cars at the Church of God and stealing clothing were apprehended by Officers Roy Hurley and Bill Dial. Following their arrest two other youths, six and 11, were implicated in the theft of a case of sodas from a storage room at a service station.

Two of the boys told police they had also taken a pistol, tape player, and 20 tapes from Louis Daugherty's car parked in his

CAPE GIRARDEAU — If the 15th annual Southeast Missouri Science Fair is an indiattion of good things to come, by mid-1980 many of America's ecological problems, drug hangups, and threatening diseases will be on the wane.

Students from 26 area schools exhibited 187 projects in Houck stadium in fields from botany to senior mathematics and computers.

One of the most intriguing exhibits was entered by Donna Diebold of Scott City. The entry -- A Study Of Bees -- includes a large glass-front hive housing live bees in the process of making honey. Diagrams, honeycombs and tools of the beekeeper's trade complete the story.

Jeff Behrle of Perryville displayed a small-scale, man-made hurricane showing wind and moisture effects. In

Robinson Innocent

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A Cole County Circuit Court jury today acquitted State Treasurer William E. Robinson of a charge he used his office for private gain.

The verdict came after the jury had deliberated for 6½ hours.

There was applause in the courtroom at the decision. Robinson and his wife broke into tears.

Later, Robinson said "I am deeply gratified" at the verdict.

The all-male jury deliberated four and one-half hours Wednesday night after both sides made closing statements.

In his closing statement, Dale Rollins, special prosecutor, reviwed the testimony of James B. Crismon, former president of the defunct First State Bank of Bonne Terre, that he gave Robinson $2,500 in cash in exchange for additional state deposits.

Rollins said Crismon and his son, Larry, both testified Robinson received the cash in a car at a motel parking lot in Jefferson City in August of 1969.

Thomas Guilfoil, defense attorney, pointed out in his closing argument that Robinson never denied taking the money but that it was a campaign contribution.

The statements came after the defense preented all its five witnesses, including Robinson, during the third day of the trial.

The state treasurer said Crismon told him he wanted to make a contribution to a campaign to secure passage of a constitutional amendment that would permit Robinson to succeed himself. The amendment passed in 1970.

Robinson said he saw Crismon at various times in their home town of Bonne Terre and in Jefferson City. He said Crismon had asked him about state deposits.

On cross examination, Robinson said he kept no detailed accounts of how he spent the full $2,500 and he could not recall specific meetings with the banker.

He also said he could not recall if he carried a $200,000 state check to the motel to give Crismon for deposit in the Bonne Terre bank.

Both Crismon and his son and Mrs. June While Saltz, who admitted she was the elder Crismon's mistress at the time, testified Tuesday that Robinson brought the check.

Other defense witnesses testified they had received a total of $1,600 in cash to work for the amendment's passage. Robinson said he used the rest of the money in traveling over the state campaigning for the amendment.

Full Work Again At Shoe Factory

Forest Rudd, plant superintendent of International Shoe Co. plant, announced today that the company will return to full production in two weeks.

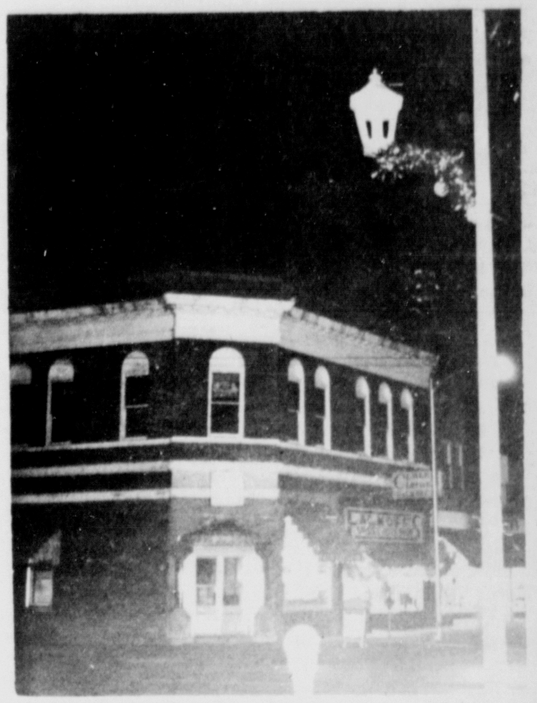
Late in 1970 an in early 1971, International Shoe decreased production and laid off personnel because of a slowdown in orders. The plant was closed down for more than four weeks.

"When the orders were coming in slowly we had to lay off workers accordingly, but now we have the orders and should start out increased production at the end of this week," Rudd said.

The plant is producing 5,340 pairs of shoes a day, but will increase it to full production of 6,000 pairs. The plant will continue to cut and fit an additional 24 dozen pair a day for the Welt Shoe Company in Windsor.

Rudd said the increase in production would mean adding from 35 to 40 to the payroll. Hiring should begin by the end of this week. International employes 460 in full production.

Rudd said he doesn't foresee another slowdown in orders.



CHRISTMAS IN APRIL? No. Just a hopeful look into the future of what is in store for Christmas, 1971. The Sikeston Metro Association Inc. is buying 30 of these Christmas lanterns with live greenery at a cost of $55 each. This lantern is at the corner of Front Street and New Madrid. At Christmas time, the arm of the lantern will be lighted. Anyone wishing to make contributions can mail their checks to Charles D. Matthews, Bank of Sikeston.

County Court Scans Finances

BENTON– County Clerk Bob Kiehlhofner reports this morning that the county court is reviewing the financial outlook of the county. The court is comparing county expenditures over the first three months with budget allotments.

Kiehlhofner said the county was in "pretty good shape" but added that the next few months are the most expensive.

The county will spend nearly $170,000 for county road improvement, he explained.

The court said that $109,000 has been spent out of the $500,000 budget.

Kiehlhofner said that he is looking into the possibility of obtaining turkey tags for Scott county. Scott County has no turkey hunting, but surrounding Wayne and Bollinger counties do and it is an inconvience for hunters to "chase down" someone selling turkey tags in those counties.

Kiehlhofner said he will place a call to the Missouri Conservation Commission to seek turkey tag sales in Scott County.

Flags to Mark Earth Day

Girl Scouts of Troop 3 made two ecology flags to be flown Saturday on Earth Day.

The flags have green and white stripes, with the Greek letter Theta in white on a green background.

The white stripes represent pure air and the green stripes represent unspoiled land.

The letter is a warning. It is used in the flag to remind the world that unless people take care of the environment, the future holds only death.

The Earth Day schedule Saturday begins at 9 a.m. with flag raising.

At 9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m., 750 children will pick up litter all over the city.

At 11 a.m.- noon, trucks will pick up litter.

At 12:00-3 p.m. a landfill project will be held at rodeo grounds.

There will be a sculpture contest of objects collected in trash collections at Kingsway Mall during an art show, Tuesday through Thursday.

Movie Set Atmosphere At Shopping Center Lot

The parking lot of the Midtowner Village Shopping Center will resemble a scene from a Hollywood movie this weekend when Hollywood stuntman Dick Ryan comes to town.

Ryan will perform Friday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Prior to performances, children will be allowed to ride Admiral, his 38-year-old movie pony. Ryan will perform many of the stunts he has done in movies and on television, explaining beforehand the planning that has gone into each.

"The secret to successful jumping isn't in the way you're built, but what you have in your mind," Ryan explains.

"Before you do a stunt, you must plan it out. If you don't have a plan you don't do the stunt. You use your mind, or you don't live.

"Women are normally better jumping horse riders than men because they have a light touch and are gentle on horses. Most men think they can overcome the horse with muscles, but a horse outweighs a man by six or seven times and could easily overcome a man. It takes gentleness and the use of planning to overcome the horse."

For the performances here he is using British Wonder, a horse which he has worked with and owned 21 years and which he says is over 40 years old.

"When I bought the horse, I didn't know his age or that much about him," Ryan said, "But when he turned out to be such a good horse, I traced him back as far as I could and discovered he was at least 20 years old when I bought him."

Explaining the spryness of the horse after so many years in the business, he said "British Wonder doesn't know he's suppose to be old, so he just goes on and on. He's just like any person who enjoys what he's doing."

Ryan went on to explain that 40 years old is not an amazingly long life for a horse. Horses live to be in their 60s he said.

A native of Amherstburg, Ontario, Canada, Ryan learned to jump horses when he was four or five. At 16 he started in show business as one of the youngest persons ever to do horse jumping stunts in motion pictures.

Although most people don't recognize Ryan's name or face, they will remember the horse jumping scene in "Gone with the Wind". It was Ryan doing the stunts.

He and his pony, Admiral, were both in tha film. Admiral was the pony ridden by Bonnie Blue, daughter of Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara. Although Admiral no longer appears in movies, he still provides rides for children at Ryan's performances.

Ryan also supplied the ponies for the "Wizard of Oz" and was placed in charge of the 250 midgets who played the Munchkins in the movie.

Other movies in which he did the horse jumping scene include the Jesse James pictures in the late 1930s, all the Errol Flynn movies and the Marx Brothers' "Day at the Races."

Ryan has most appeared on television in episodes of "Gunsmoke", "The Virginian," and "Big Valley". Those who don't remember the stunt man from his movies, may remember him as the man who put on the famous Armistice Day Rodeo in 1945 in Tokyo. During the rodeo, Emperor Hirohito allowed Ryan to ride his white Arabian stallion, Hatsushimo-First Frost, around the arena. Afterwards, the emperor presented the stallion to Ryan as a gift, after Gen. Douglas McArthur turned it down.

He brought it back to the United States. He still owns it today although he doesn't use it in his shows.

Ryan now tours the country with his horse jumping act in the spring and summer after television filmings are completed. He has taught riding to such stars as Susan Hayward, Ronald Regan and Linda Darnell.

WHAT COMMUNISM IS LIKE

The left-leaning Washington Post recently published a series of well-featured articles promoting the "cause" of a number of those in the "intellectual community" who, during the worst days of Stalinism, supported the U. S. S. R. and opposed investigations of Communism in America. All of them claimed (and the Post faithfully reported, without contradicion or correction) that Communism was something rather uplifting ("like the Boy Scouts," said one) and that they would never, but never, reveal the names of their fellow quislings annd collaborators, such was their noble nature.

But the real face of Communism is shown in the April, 1971 issue of READER'S DIGEST Magazine. An article everyone should read is "Inside The Prisons of Hanoi," by Louis R. Stockstill. From informed sources, the blood-chilling story is told of the cruelty and inhumanity of the Viet Cong who are now holding upwards of 1,600 Americans as blackmail, hoping that the United States will turn all of South Vietnam over to their tender mercies in exchange for the prisoners. In the meantime, the Red thugs are subjecting the POW captives to the most degrading treatment imaginable.

One other fact emerges from the DIGEST story; the description of how the communists treat people in North Vietnam is astonishingly, and shockingly identical to that of the Communists in North Korea (in the Pueblo case as well as the Korean War) and of the Communist in the USSR and the captive nations of Europe. It is highly unlikely that the Red jail keepers in North Vietnam, North Korea, Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, or Poland have ever met; but their behavior towards their captives is the same, because all of them share the same Marxist-Leninist ideology.

You can do something about it by writing a short (but emphatic!) letter now to Ton Duc Thang, Dictator of North Vietnam, Hanoi, c/o Young Americans For Freedom, 1221 Mass. Ave. N. W., Washington D.C. 20005, demanding the release of prisoners, access of the Red Cross to the POW camps, and adherence to the Geneva Convention.

WHAT KIND OF A COUNTRY
ARE YOU LEAVING ME?

(Editor's note: A reader brought us a clipping of one of the most powerful editorials we have read anywhere. It was distributed some years ago by the Coast Federal Savings of Los Angeles. Every line of it will make you think. It will make some people feel ashamed and it may make some people angry. We hope it will make you angry enough to do something about it. Anyway, this is the editorial:)

There is no use pretending you don't see me.

You just sit still and listen.

I'm not very smart yet, but I'm smart enough to see what you are doing to the country in which I must grow up and support my family.

When I do that, will I be allowed to be myself, or will I be a social security number in a government file?

When I get sick, whose doctor can I go to, my doctor or the government doctor?

When I go to school, who is going to decide what I learn, my mother and father or a government bureau?

When I am able to afford a house, will I be able to build one just as good as I can make it, or will it be a government-built house, worth only part of what the government taxed me for housing?

When I go to work, will I be able to pick my own job or will I have to get a work permit from the government and take whatever job they give me?

And if I have critized the government, will I get a work permit?

A clipping found in an old scrapbook reads this way:

I married a widow who had a grown-up daughter. My father visited our house very often and fell in love with my step-daughter and married her. So my father became my son-in-law and my step-daughter my mother, because she was my father's wife.

Sometime afterward, my wife had a son -- he was my father's brother-in-law and uncle, for he was the brother of my step-daughter.

My father's wife (my step-daughter) also had a son; he was, of course, my brother, and in the meantime, my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter.

My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild, at the same time. And as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather.

Lo, yon window in Harvard's ivory tower gloweth brightly and the bell ringeth loudly, but it doth not ring for thee; it twangs for Liberaldom and Mushy Muscovitism. Here is where academic hooey dwells and it would be funny if having SDS courses and riots and Harvey Coxes were only to be Harvard's undoing (and no one else's). But see, it doesn't work that way. Fabian Socialism was nurtured here (the Lowell Lectures) and it seems every present-day divisive element in the U. S. was germinated here or touched magically by those who came to Harvard. One could name some of its teachers, like that old Fabian Socialist Harold Laski, Arthur Schlesinger Sr. (& Jr.), Felix Frankfurter, John Maynard Keynes, and student Walter Lippmann who founded Harvard's Intercollegiate Socialist Society and co-founded the New Republic. Not to mention the ADA types who now run the middle echelon of government who ... but we tire of scratching this surface and should write a book, but no one would publish it. Why? Because the books that get published and publicized are done so by Harvard -Types who publish Harvard Corp. Blum co-authored an antihistory called The National Experience: A History of the United States, along with Schlesinger, Jr. - the result being intellectual murder. One almost wishes SDS could bring down academe, starting and ending with Harvard.

Elrick also said it was "deplorable" for the school bulletin board to display the exhortation "God Bless America" because it is, "in effect, a prayer in violation of the Supreme Court's ruling that public schools are to refrain from such activities." Being talked about in the nation's capital is, believe it or not, year-round daylight-saving time. The Washington Star reports that a lot of government workers want another hour of daylight during the winter (it's dark at 5:05 p.m. there) in order to get home before the muggers unsheath their knives and start waving their pistols. Some top policemen say they doubt if the extra hour would deter crime, but some of these doubters say the idea is worth a try — especially if it would also speed up homeward -bound traffic. The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has several time change bills, most of which seek to cut the six months of daylight savings to three months. Perhaps any coming debate on the matter would be good, giving the nation a respite from coming debates on military expenditures and socialized medicine.

Since 1956 total government (Federal, state and local) tax collections have increased by 181 per cent, Tax Foundations, Inc., estimates.

In fiscal 1956, collections amounted to just over $100 billion, or the equivalent of $2,045 per American household. For Fiscal 1971, Tax Foundation researchers estimate tax collections will total $218 billion, or $4,328 per household.

This increase reflects a considerable rise, of course, in total government expenditures.

Here's the tax collection figures by government entity and on a per household basis as shown in the table below:

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS NOW, one or more police in the cities of the United States, has been murdered weekly by law violators. We have now passed four years since anyone sentenced to death has been executed. That man who murdered the eight nurses in cold blood, still lives. So does the assassins of Bobby Kennedy and Martin Luther King. Federal courts have found that the Chicago Seven, and their attorneys cannot be held in jail for contempt of court because of some technicality. Charles Manson and several members of his harem have been sentenced to death for the murder of Sharon Tate and others, whom the murderers did not know, but thought they ought to be killed. It is doubtful they will ever go to the gas chamber or the electric chair. Crime can be committed with less danger of punishment today than ever before. CRITICS OF
RAILPAX

Montana has been given only one across-state Railpax passenger train route, so Senator Mansfield says that is inadequate and Railpax ought to serve all 48 states. Wyoming gets no routes, so Senator McGee wants to rescind public funds until Railpax justifies its routes.

But Railpax Roard Chairman David W. Kendall has justified the routes. He notes that the system will serve all but one of the 29 cities of more than 1,000,000 population, and all but one of 27 cities above 500,000. Railpax has always been intended primarily as an intercity service, because intercity traffic alone promises to make money. And Congress insisted in establishing Railpax that it make a profit. It will make none in Wyoming or Montana, if it ever makes one.

Senators Mansfield and McGee voted for Railpax, including the profit provision. When they now demand the impossible, it must be for the folks back home. Surely they know better.

GOOD NAME'S WORTH ...
TO OTHERS

"Who steals my purse steals trash," quoth the Bard, " ... but he who filches from me my good name robs me of that which not enriches him and makes me poor indeed."

Shakespeare might have cause to revise his lines were he alive today. One of the biggest businesses in a nation of big businesses is the buying or selling or renting or swapping of the good names of tens of millions of Americans.

Alas, betimes the lucrative business of selling by mail can also lead to the filching of names, as witness a suit recently filed in Chicago by Encyclopedia Britannica against three of its former employes.

Yon suit charges that said former employes, all of whom worked the night shift as computer operators, stole the company's confidential list of customers' names and addresses by copying computer tape reels. Not only that, but they presumably did it on company equipment and on company time.

They then peddled the names to a direct mail service company, which purchased them in good faith and sold them in turn to a competitor of EB. The theft was discovered when a piece of mail was received by a code name or decoy on the list, who was actually a member of the EB marketing staff.

In its suit, the company claims theft of its property — viz., the names of over two million people.

The two million, of course, whoever they are, probably remain blissfully convinced that Shakespeare was right and that their names are their own property.

Not these days.

PAY AS YOU BLOW
IT UP

The dean of the University of Wisconsin law school has come up with, if not a solution, at least a new approach to a major headache of college administrators — the soaring cost of property damage insurance.

Under a plan formulated by Dean Spencer L. Kimball, each student at state universities would be required to pay a surcharge of $100 each semester. The individual campus would hold $90 and the remaining $10 would go into a general fund covering all schools in the state.

At the Madison campus alone of the University of Wisconsin, this would create a fund of some $5.5 million.

But if no damage o disruption occurred during the semester, the $90 would be refunded to the student. The state would keep the $10.

It,s sort of a pay -as - you - blow -it -up plan, though Kimball hopes that its real effect would be to encourage students to oppose acts of violence.

ANSWERING SERVICE

The secretaries in our office have these instructions pinned close to their telephones:

A.M.:

"He hasn't come in yet."

"I expect him in any minute."

"He just sent word he.d be a little late."

"He's been in but he went out again."

"Sorry, he's gone to lunch."

P.M.:

"I expect him in any minute."

"He hasn't come back yet."

"He's somewhere in the building; his hat is here."

"Yes, he was in but he went out again."

"I don't know whether he'll be back or not."

"No, he's gone for the day."

"Why don't you diet?" asked the doctor.

"Say, that's a real groovy idea," said the coed. "What color do you think he'd like?"

JUSTICE DOUGLAS, THE WRITER

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, still under investigation by House members for possible impeachment proceedings, has turned some of his thoughts to foreign affairs and government agencies other than the judiciary in a new book, "International Dissent."

The controversial justice who is the ultimate liberal in interpretations of the law apparently has been heavily swayed by the utterances of the communist and Marxist adherants in this country and abroad. He sees no great danger in the Communist nations. We should not fear the Soviet Union, he intimates. He declares that Castro's Cuba has a relatively mild Communist system which is only inflammatory to the minds of our U.S. fascists.

He has some thoughts on Red China and what we ought to do about it. "If the United States were to support the admission of (communist) China as ... a member of the family of nations .... it would change the American image and do more than any single thing ... to relieve the tensions that plague the world."

And he believes that the Pentagon ought to be reduced to the size of "an average federal agency."

There has been a feeling among law -abiding citizens for Several years now that Mr. Justicy Douglas has gone a long way in destroying our system of justice with his far-out, liberal decisions. We wonder now if he wouldn't just as soon we threw in with the socialistic system and join in extinguishing world freedom. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--President Nixon is using the White House to throw funraising dinners for the Republicans campaign chest.

He invites fat cats to the White House for quiet, de rigeur dinners. Afterward, over Sancerre and cigars, they are hit up for political contributions.

Few financial tycoons can resist an invitation to dine at the White House, and they arrive resplendent in black tie and tux to be plucked.

To preserve the presidential dignity, Nixon doesn.t stay around for the sordid financial pitch. He makes some lofty remarks about peace and prosperity, then discreetly departs before the money tree is shaken.

The latest White House fund raiser was held on April 8 less than three weeks after the President declared on TV his firm support for limiting campaign contributions.

A glittering gathering of Illinois millionaires, dressed in their fancy duds, munched on delectables from the White House kitchen and listened to the President talk.

He told how he was turning the Vietnam war over to the Vietnamese and said he was sorry he hadn't followed his own advice when he urged stock market speculators to start buying a year ago.

He started to leave, paused to listen respectfully to Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie, then made good his escape.

WHITE HOUSE PITCH

Thereupon, lesser White House celebrities took over and began to warm up the group for the plucking. Even Harry Dent, the President's Southern strategist, joined in the political evangelism.

"Southerners just love the President," oozed Dent in his best Dixie dialect.

First on his feet to offer financial aid was insurance tycoon W. Clement Stone, perhaps the sweeter sugar daddy of them all, who contributed a traceable $650,000 to the GOP in 1969, another $1 million in 1970 through a maze of channels.

But the willing Stone, who resembles the late comedian Robert Benchley, has received unfavorable publicity for his beneficence. Presumably with this in mind, R. Douglas Stuart, the Quaker Oats magnate, suggested bluntly that Clem Stone's name ought to be kept out of their fund-raising effort.

"You are absolutely right," said Stone amiably. "I agree with you completely."

In the awesome atmosphere of the White House, full of good food and drink, the money men offered little resistnace. Indeed, the fat cats are expected to line up for a chance to be dunned at a White House dinner. And the rustle of every unfolding bill and the scratch of pen on check add emphasis to the need for reforming the greatest evil in the American political system.

HASSAN'S ARMY

FBI and narcotics agents are investigating a black nationalist who is using $523,000 in federal funds to prepare artisan-soldiers for eventual emigration to Africa.

At the head of this bizarre private army is Col. Hassan Jeru-Ahmed, a handsome, ebullient man of 47, whohas also wangled $169,000 in government drug-treatment money for his Blackman's Development Center.

The FBI is checking allegations that the federal funds are being misused. The narcotics agents are inquiring why his drug-treatment center can't seem to bar heroin from its own premises.

And the Anti-Defamation League would like to block all funds to the self-styled colonel because of his anti-Semitic past.

Yet a number of responsible officials, doctors and even narcotics men praise him for reaching the unreachables. Addicts who would never deal with a government agency have flocked to Hassan's center for methadone treatment. Some don't come back; others stop by merely to pick up the substitute drug. But others, apparently, have been cured.

Hassan, a onetime bad check artist and onetime wig seller, had nearly 200 men quartered in his private army billets around Washington. He claims to have 8,000 troops scattered across the country, a figure doubted by federal officials.

Whatever his past, he has proved to be a brilliant organizer. Besides his government grants, he is trying to run construction teams, an arts program in an old theater and a filling station.

He calls his para-military force the Blackman's Volunteer Army of Liberation, the military arm of the Provisional Government of the United Moorish Republic. This mythical government exists only in Hassan't mind. But the troops are real; and the $523,000 is real.

His drug-treatment program, structured entirely by Hassan himself, has registered thousands of addicts, many for the first time. Dr. Robert DuPont, whose own Washington, D.C., drug program has been harshly criticized by Hassan, allows that the controversial colonel has "played an important and constructive role in dramatizing tothe Washington community the serious epidemic of heroin addiction."

But two prominent black leaders, who asked that their names be withheld because of fear of violence from Hassan is doing a good job. "If he's doing what he says," said the official, "then he should go on.

If he's not, then he ought to be arrested."

EARLIER EARLY RETIREMENT: Union Men Now Push For Double Pensions; State, City, Private Systems Total $182 Billion:

WASHINGTON: -- Once upon a time a very fine president promised a chicken in every pot. Had he been campaigning today he might have been arrested for peddling dangerous drugs. Semantics have changed. Times have changed. After the chicken came two cars in every garage. Last season bright young realtors began promoting the two-home family. And now the nation's organized workers are pushing for a two-pension retirement.

Actually this development is under way in some cities. The cost will be enormous. No tax system can remain its solid underpinning in the public sector. No private pension system can support the retiree on two pensions without inflating the dollar into a reasonable facsimile of the Czarist rouble.

At this moment of so-called normalcy in retirement on single pensions there are $130 billion in private pension funds. And there are $52 billion in state and local government employe pension systems.

At a "normal" rate of growth, 9 per cent to 12 per cent a year, specialists estimate that in some two decades private pension pools will contain over $500 billion.

As for the state, county and municipal pension systems -- who can tell? In the New York City systems alone there now are some $4 billion. The new contract will cost the city $10 million more annually just to cover the three uniformed services. Today's $52 billion worth of public sector pension funds could run into the hundreds of billions, too, as Jerry Wurf's American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFL-CIO), the country's swiftest growing union, whips across the nation's cities signing up 65,000 civil servants yearly and the teachers push as they now are in Newark, N.J., Pittsburgh, San Francisco, etc., etc. -- all afflicted with the terminal syndrome. Early retirement, early retirement early retirement.

Recently at dinner, one of the nation's eminent businessmen turned to me and said I'd not believe him, but a bright young executive whom he had been grooming had resigned. And the chap had gone into the city's sanitation department. This is a euphemism for collecting garbage. My friend was told by the departing assistant that he wanted early retirement. He couldn't get a better deal -- half pay after 20 years on the job with retirement at any age.

The "half pay" pension is based on the total of the pay checks he receives during the last year on the job.

Thus shift differential money, special premium pay for any kind of special work and overtime are added to the base pay. There are cases in which hundreds of workers in several departments of one city take every minute of overtime, every second of any kind of premium pay work in an effort to hike the last year's pay.

Many, many times the base pay is doubled when the special pay and overtime are added. Thus half of this total upon retirement is the original base pay -- and, in effect, the retiree goes out with his original full pay for life.

In at least one major city this could mean anywhere between $12,000 and $14,000. It could also mean retirement on such "half" pay anywhere between the ages of 41 and 45. At this point, new jobs often are obtained, especially by policemen, fire fighters, transit patrolmen, transit workers, and sanitation men. Then in another 20 years there will be new pensions. True, this second one will be smaller. But it could bring the total retirement income at 61 to 65 years of age to $20,000 annually.

This is the trend. It's under way and should not be ignored nor deemed any more impossible than the two-car garage.

It is inevitable because coupled with the terminal syndrome is the parity complex. Me-too-ism. Each city department everywhere wants what the other got -- and since teachers, fire fighters, police and social welfare workers are in strategic positions they lead the way.

As for the private sector, just look at the United Auto Workers' gain of "$500 at 30 and out." Thus after 30 years on the job, the workers can retire at about $125 a week, sometime in his or her mid to late 50s under the new contract.

Obviously the old retirement-at-65 tradition has been racked. Obviously this auto agreement is only the beginning.

So the pension funds, financed mostly by the employer, private or or public, will become vast pools of cash. Just look at the most famous, or call it notorious, fund, the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund operation. It has some $800 million.

Pension funds, which invest about $8 billion a year in securities, can swing the stock market. So whoever controls the funds can influence financial trends.

After all, even with the cost of living what it is, $130 billion (with $15 billion more pouring in each year, and not too much going out because almost everyone you meet these days is under 25) and is a lot of money. And where will it all come from?

Charleston Dogwood-Azalea Tour April 24-25

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Dogwood and Azalea Tour April 24 and 25 promises to be a spectacular, fun-filled weekend, according to Dr. Lowell Nicholas, chairman of the third annual event.

Expanding the list of activities from last year's tour weekend has occupied the planning committee this year, Dr. Nicholas said, with the result that dozens of new "things to do and see" will be offered to the city's 1971 visitors.

Last year an estimated 3,000 persons came to Charleston to see the city's magnificent springtime displays of flowering dogwooed, redbud and azalea.

At midway in the tour route is the E. Charles Rowling City Park, which will be the scene of most of the tour weekend activities. Here are just a few highlights of the activities in the park most of which will be available Sunday afternoon.

. Arts and Crafts Show - 75 artists and craftsmen exhibiting painting, pottery, china painting, woodcarving, candle making, miniature painting, sculpture, portrait sketching, copper enameling, lithography, ceramics, and hand-tooling of leather. (Saturday and Sunday afternoons).

. Surrey and buggy rides along the tour route:

. Antique car show.

. Marionette shows by the Lambert Puppeteers ofCape Girardeau and the Junior Class of Cape Central High School.

. Pony rides

. Azalea Prince and Princess Contest at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

. Shy diving exhibitions every hour Sunday afternoon by the Bootheel Skydivers of Kennett.

. A dog show Sunday afternoon featuring prizes for 20 categories of pooches, including: Shaggiest, largest, smallest, whitest, blackest, best behaved, longest tail, shortest tail, cutest, longest ears, bushiest tail, happiest, saddest, most different colors, longest body, shortest legs, shiniest coat, most bowlegged, longest hair, and shortest hair.

. A horseshoe pitching contest.

. Two white elephant booths and two crafts booths

. A balloon-busting game booth

. A booth for the sale of cards, recipe cards, place mats and other items.

. A Sesquicentennial booth.

. A clown on the park grounds

. A "fishing" booth, and

. Entertainment by local talent, including the Texas Benders and The Spanish Fleas.

Also on tap for the weekend, but not at the park grounds, are these events:

. A pony-pulling contest on the A. D. Simpson Park grounds Saturday night.

. A children's art show from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Warren E. Hearnes School on Plant Road.

. A skeet shoot sponsored by the Mississippi County Gun Club on Highway 62, west, Sunday.

. A promotion by Charleston merchants will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday, when a plane will release one thousand ping-pong balls over the downtown area. Some of the balls will have the name of a store written on them, these may be turned in for prizes at the respective places of business.

Tour information booths will be set up at two locations this year, at the Junior High School on South Main Street and on the front lawn of the A. L. Story home on East Marshall Street. (Both are locatd on Business Route I-57). Volunteers will be on hand at both booths to assist out-of-town visitors from 1 to 5 p.m. on both days of the tour. Free tour maps will be provided at the booths.

The chairman said he hopes residents from throughout the Mid-South will come to Charleston for the annual tour. "The floral displays, built up over a 20-year period through the yearly shrubbery sales of the local Molly French Garden Clyb, are now among the most lovely to be seen anywhere in the nation," Dr. Nicholas said.

"The people of Charleston want to share this springtime finery with anyone who appreciates floral beauty," he added. "And from the list of activities, you can see that there will be plenty to keep visitors happy after they have seen the flowers."

No Disaster Because Child Isn't Beautiful

Dear Ann Landers: I could never talk to anyone about this problem and I MUST tell it to somebody. It is getting me down.

My husband and I have been married 10 years. Our son, who is now 8, is a very handsome boy. He has my husband's eyes and smile, my nose, a great shaped head and a strong jawline. Everyone remarks on his good looks.

Our daughter is two years old, and I am sorry to say she is the homeliest child I have ever seen.Nature really played a dirty trick on us. It would have been much better if the boy had beenhomely and the girl had been good looking. A girl needs beauty -- a boy doesn't.

Our daughter inherited the worse features of both my husband and me. When people see her they don't know what to say. Occasionally someone will ask, "Is that YOUR child, or is she adopted?" I know what they are driving at.

When our daughter is older we can have her protruding ears fixed, her chin built up and her nose remolded. Hopefully she will have a good figure. If she doesn't, there are several things a girl can do. But the growing up years are going to be very hard on this pathetic child. Please tell me how to face the future cheerfully. If you could name some movie stars who were homely youngsters, it would help a lot --- Star Crossed

Dear Crossed: The pathetic one in the family is you --- not your daughter. How sad that you attach so much importance to good looks. I hope you get your thinking squared away befory you transmit your anxieties to the little girl --- if you haven't done so already. How dreadful for a child to feel that she has let her mother down because she isn't beautiful. Get some counseling, Mother. You've got a geranium in your cranium.

Dear Ann Landers: A woman in our club made an announcement at the last meeting that her daughter had telephoned her the night before from New Jersey to tell her the good news. She accepted a ring and is going to marry a doctor. Everyone said, "Congratulations," and "Isn't that wonderful," and how nice that Rosalie is getting such a catch. I myself was making plans to give a kitchen shower for Rosalie when I heard the real story. Her finance is a DENTIST!

I telephoned my friend and asked her straight out why she said "Doctor" when he is only a dentist. She got mad and yelled, "A dentist IS a doctor." I told her she knew perfectly well what I meant. She hung up on me. Will you please tell me who is right? I know I am but I want to hear it from you. --- Trouble in Shaker Heights

Dear Shaker: A dentist is a doctor and Rosalie's mother has every right to call him a doctor if she wants to.

Dear Ann Landers: When two older women live together, say two widowed sisters, or a mother and a daughter, or even two friends, and a card is sent for both -- such as a Christmas card or an Easter greeting, or a letter -- whose name should appear on the envelope first? We have had two long discussions about this at our weekly card club. Some members feel the older person's name should be first, others say the named should be alphabetized. What do you think? --- One of Two

Dear One: I must confess I have never given this a thought. And now that I have thought about it, would you believe I don't think it makes a darned bit of difference? Go back and tell your club they need a project.

Give in or lose him ... when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Woman Chairman Of SBA Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mary Lou Grier beats everybody to the joke about being the plumber's best friend.

She admits to being a dripping-faucet expert—and president—manager of a plumbing supply firm in Boerne, Tex.

Today she takes on a new job: chairman of the 55-member National Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration.

Mrs. Grier is long on expertise in politics—she's one of five vice presidents of the Texas Republican Party—but she's been in business for herself only about 18 months.

Her husband, baxter, would have to be called a big businessman. He's executive vice president of one of San Antonio's major industries, the Alamo Iron Works.

"I always believed in the free-enterprise system and I just felt this was an opportunity to do something challenging," Mrs. Grier said in an interview Tuesday. "I'm the plumber's friend."

Last April she was named to the SBA's advisory council as an at-large member for the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

The average person thinks of the SBA as strictly a lending agency, Mrs. Grier said, and doesn't know that a big hunk of the time is spent in giving free advice.

"The typical small-town businessman just doesn't know the elements of doing business, even of keeping books," she said, "and suddenly they find they're in difficulty and they don't know why."

The 46-year-old Mrs. Grier calls small business the backbone of the nation and says there's still room for repeats of the Horatio Alger, self-made tycoon story.

Legal Secretaries Meet

The Cape Girardeau—Mississippi—Scott Counties Legal Secretaries Association held its annual Day-In Court program last Thursday at the city court room with James Sickal, police judge, host.

Eighteen secretaries attended, representing three counties and the cities of Cape Girardeau, Jackson, Benton, Sikeston and Charleston.

Judge Sickal talked to the secretaries and explained to them the procedure he would follow and the statutes governing municipal courts in Missouri. Judge Sickal heard approximately 50 cases during the session.

Refreshments were served by chairman of the day in court activities, Mrs. Etta Frobase, Benton.

The next meeting of the Association will be next Thursday. They will participate in Charleston's second annual Azalea tour festivities April 24-25.

Birds Rip Dodgers, Royals Lose to Angels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis assaulted three Los Angeles pitchers for 12 hits, including home runs by Jim Beauchamp and Lou Brock, to defeat the Dodgers 7-1 on the West Coast Tuesday night.

The Kansas City Royals led the California Angels 1-0 going into the seventh inning when Jerry Moses doubled to score the tieing run. Minutes later, pinch hitter Tony Gonzales slapped a bat-handle triple with the bases loaded and the Angels shut out the Royals the rest of the way for a 4-1 victory.

Beauchamp's homer broke a scoreless duel between the Cards Jerry Reuss and the Dodgers Claude Osteen in the fifth. The cards picked up two more runs in the sixth, and two each in the eighth and ninth.

Beauchamp and Brock each had three hits and Ted Simmons and Beauchamp each drove in two runs.

The Dodgers scored their only run in the seventh on a basesloaded sacrifice fly with one out.

Reuss now is 1-1 and Osteen 2-1.

The Kansas City loss was charged to Jim Rooker, 1-2. Clyde Wright, 1-2, was the winner with relief help from Mel Queen who retired the last five Royal batters in order.

The Royals and Angels meet again tonight in Municipal Stadium with Bruce Delcanton scheduled to open for Kansas City and Tom Murphy for California.

Reggie Cleveland will open for the Cardinals in Los Angeles tonight against Don Sutton of the Dodgers.

Reliever Knowles Gets Support, Senators Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The telephone rang in the Washington bullpen and Darold Knowles got up to start throwing. The scoreboard showed the Senators trailing 5-0—a fairly safe situation for Knowles, who is one of baseball's premier relief pitchers, but not one of its luckiest.

Knowles logged 27 saves and a 2.04 earned run average last season. The numbers are more than respectable until you get to his record, which was a woeful 2-14.

Ted Williams, manager of the Senators, called it the phoniest record in baseball history. Knowles called it a few other things.

The problem was Knowles' knack for not getting any runs from the Senators to support his pitching. He'd enter tied games, hold the opposition scoreless for a couple of innings and then get nicked for a run and the loss. Washington rarely scored for him.

But this is a brand new season and Knowles is the proud owner of a glittering 2-0 record. He recorded his second victory in a week Wednesday night when the Senators, ignoring the fact that he was the pitcher of record, exploded for six runs in the bottom of the seventh inning and a 6-5 victory over Boston.

In other American League action Wednesday, Baltimore blanked Cleveland 3-0, New York rapped Detroit 8-4, Milwaukee shut out Chicago 2-0, Oakland took Minnesota 6-1 and California dropped Kansas City 4-1.

In the National League, San Francisco edged Houston 2-1, Philadelphia topped Pittsburgh 6-5, Cincinnati battered Atlanta 8-3 and St. Louis clouted Los Angeles 7-1. New York at Montreal and Chicago at San Diego were both postponed by bad weather.

Knowles hasn't given up a run in 5 1-3 innings spread over three games. But when he mowed downthe Red Sox in the top of the seventh Wednesday night, it hardly seemed important since Washington trailed by five runs.

Suddenly, though, it became very important as Washington rallied. Mike Epstein opened with a walk and singles by Joe Foy, Frank Howard and Richie Scheinblum kayoed Mike Nagy, who had been working on a two-hit shutout until then.

An error by reliever Bob Bolin loaded the bases and then Bolin walked Tom McCraw and Elliot Maddox on eight pitches, forcing two more runs home. Tim Cullen followed with a single driving home Washington's tying and winning runs and making a winner of the perennial loser, Knowles.

Mike Cuellar spun a four-hitter and Boog Powell bombed a two-run homer to move Baltimore past Cleveland. The Orioles have won five of six games and have had four complete game efforts by their pitching staff.

Powell's two-run shot jolted loser Sam McDowell in the third inning and Paul Blair doubled home the Birds' other run in the sixth.

Felipe Alou, making his debut for the Yankees, tagged a fourth inning homer that touched off a four-run New York rally in the victory over Detroit. Winning pitcher Fritz Peterson singled in one run in that rally and drove in another when he drew a bases-loaded walk later in the game.

Dick McAuliffe homered for the Tigers.

Rookie Jim Slaton combined with Marcelino Lopez and Ken Sanders to shut out Chicago on three hits for Milwaukee. Slaton limited the White Sox to three singles over six innings before leaving for a pinch hitter and then Lopez and Sanders finished up.

Cape Central Bottles Bulldogs, 9 to 0

The VFW Stadium was the scene of the downfall of the Bulldogs as Hogan of Cape Girardeau Central shut out the Dogs while the Tigers put nine runs on the board to take home a 9-0 baseball victory.

Not only was Hogan a pain in the side of the Sikeston batsman but the fielding plays of the Bulldogs produced six errors, two of which came in the first inning.

In the first inning seven Tigers made trips to the plate and before Sikeston could put out this early fire they were down 2-0. One-two - three was the manner in which the Sikeston batsmen went to and from the plate as Hogan and company disposed of the Dogs 1-2-3.

Second inning was a bit different as only three Tigers made the journey to the plate and were turned back 1-2-3 with two of them being strikeouts. Sikeston was again unable to cross the plate in its frame and went into the third trailing 2-0.

And so the game went for the third inning with neither team making progress. The Bulldogs recorded one of their three hits in the game when Evans slashed a single but was left on ase.

The fourth inning was again the way Cape Central wanted it. The Tigers crossed the plate two times and held the Dogs scoreless. The Bulldogs were trailing, 4-0, going into the fifth inning.

Neither squad could make progress in the fifth and the score remained 4-0 going into the sixth inning.

Four Cape Central Tigers crossed the plate in a big sixth inning for Cape Central. The Tigers went into the lead, 8-0, and kept their lead going into the ninth inning when Sikeston failed to score in the eighth.

Pushing across one last run in the ninth the Tigers used it as insurance. Hogan again shone for the Tigers, striking out two Sikestonians in the last inning to cinch his shutout victory.

Hogan struck out 11 and walked one man in working for his shutout. He went the distance for Cape.

Losing pitcher was Sikeston ace McDowell.

Extra base hits went to two Cape Central payers, Deurach, who had a triple in the sixth, and Schlick, who had a double in the fourth.

The three hits of Sikeston were singles made by Evans, Leffler, and Johnson. Three Sikeston hurlers saw action in Wednesday's contest with McDowell, Blankenship and Miller seeing mound duty.

Friday the Bulldogs journey to Lilbourn to battle the Panthers in an afternoon game. The Dogs' record for the season is 3-2.

Bullets, Lakers Come Alive in NBA Playoffs

All of a sudden the Baltimore Bullets and Los Angeles Lakers are very much alive in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bullets walloped the champion New York Knicks 101-80 Wednesday night to tie the Eastern Conference final at 2-2. The Lakers similarly whacked the milwaukee Bucks 118-107 to cut the Bucks' lead in the Western Conference final to 2-1.

In the American Basketball Association playoffs the Indiana Pacers drubbed the Utah Stars 120-107 to even their West Division final at 1-1.

The Bullets, who had walloped the Knicks 114-88 Sunday, humiliated the NBA champs for the second straight time at Baltimore. Led by Jack Marin's 27 points they took command in the first quarter and were nver headed. They turned the game into a rout in the final period.

The fifth game will be played in New York Friday and the Knicks have cause for worry. Willis Reed, their star, reinjured his right shoulder, scored only 14 points, and sat out the last seven minutes.

Wilt Chamberlain, who scored 24 points and grabbed 24 rebounds, led the Lakers, who broke open a close game by surging to a 17-point lead in the second half over the Bucks.

Pat Riley, subbing for Keith Erickson, who underwent an appendectomy Sunday, also scored 24 points for the Lakers as did Gail Goodrich and Happy Hairston. Bob Dandridge led the Bucks with 25 points. Lew Alcindor added 20.

Jackson Indians Stings Dexter

DEXTER — Playing the role of the spoiler the Jackson Indians stung the Bearcat track team, 78-58. Dexter also dropped the junior varsity match, 60 to 42, to a persistent Indian crew.

Neal of Jackson was the thorn in the side of the Dexter thinclads as he placed number one in three events. Neal won the pole vault with a twelve feet seven inch effort, claimed the high hurdles with a 17.2 second showing and the 440-yard dash with a 53.9 running.

Bench Batters Atlanta, Cincy Sweeps Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Bench took some extra batting practice in Atlanta Stadium.

Wasn't it nice of the Braves to supply the pitchers:

Cincinnati's most valuable catcher topped off a series of fence wrecking, ripening his batting average with two singles and a home run Wednesday night as the Reds pasted the Braves 8-3.

The Bench barrage, which helped the defending National League champions sweep the three-game set, included a total four homers of his seven hits, seven runs knocked in and six scored.

His singles Wednesday night were against long-time knuckleball nemesis Phil Niekro and boosted Bench's morale as well as his hitting percentage.

"Already I've had a good year against Niekro,' I said Bench, whose mark jumped from .250 to .379 with this sensational series." "He's the toughest pitcher for me to hit.'

Atlanta's Hank Aaron also did a job on the Cincinnati staff, including two homers Wednesday night that gave him three for the series. Hammerin' Hank, who started the series with an un-Aaron-like .100 average, skied to .242 with a 6-for-13 performance, 6 RBI and 3 runs scored.

Philadelphia trimmed Pittsburgh 6-5, San Francisco turned back Houston 2-1 and St. Louis beat Los Angeles 7-1 in the other National League games. Two contests were rained ut—Chicago at San Diego and New York at Montreal.

In the American League, Baltimore beat Cleveland 3-0; New York thumped Detroit 8-4; Milwaukee whipped Chicago 2-0; Oakland blasted Minnesota 6-1; Washington topped Boston 6-5 and California clipped Kansas City 4-1.

Tony Cloninger got his first victory of the year for Cincinnati, but had to be bailed out in the last three innings by Clay Carroll, a former Brave.

The Reds snapped a 2-2 tie with four runs in the third inning, opening with singles by Tony Perez and Bench. Willie Smith bounced to Niekro, who fielded the ball and threw it into center field, allowing Perez to score.

Hal McRay then drilled a two-run double to the fence and Tommy Helms got in the last run of the inning with a grounder that scored McRae.

Aaron, now only three homers away from the 600-career plateau, unloaded a two-run shot in the first inning then fired a solo blast into the left field seats in the fourth. It was the 38th time Aaron had smashed two four-baggers in a game.

Denny Doyle delivered a two-run single with the bases soaked in the last of the eighth as Philadelphia struck from behind. The Pirates had gone ahead 5-4 in the top of the frame when Al Oliver's forceout bouncer scored Manny Sanguillen.

The Pirates threatened in the ninth, but Dick Selma rescued Philadelphia by nipping the rally with men on first and second and one out.

Tito Fuentes' two-out single to center in the 11th inning drove in Frank Johnson with the winning run for San Francisco, which won its third straight game.

Dick Dietz opened the frame against reliever george Culver with a single. After a strikeout, Johnson forced Dietz, but took second on shortstop Roger Metzger's throwing error. After Alan Gallagher was intentionally walked, Fuentes hit a 2-2 offering into center and Johnson beat Cesar Cedeno's throw home.

Bobby Bonds gave San Francisco a 1-0 lead in the first with his second omer, but that was matched in the fifth when Bob Watson hit one for Houston.

Jim Beauchamp and Lou Brock each hit homers and knocked in two runs apiece for St. Louis and former Los Angeles infielder Ted Sizemore tormented the Dodgers with an RBIsingle and steal of home.

Beauchamp's bases-empty homer in the fifth broke a scoreless duel between St. Louis' Jerry Reuss and Los Angeles' Claude Osteen. The Cards added all the runs they needed with two in the sixth on a double by Ted Simmons and singles by Bock and Beauchamp.

Bernie Drops Thriller

BERNIE —Chuck Owens, ace righthander of the Bernie Mules, came in to relieve Walker in the third inning but the damage had been done and the Bernie Mules dropped their first baseball game of the season, 7-6, to the Clarkton Reindeer.

Clarkton jumped onto the pitching staff of Bernie for three runs in the first inning and added another run in the second inning to jump out to 4-0 lead going into the third inning.

Danny Stoelting, the winning pitcher, held the Mules scoreless until the fifth inning when the Mules began to make their move by scoring two runs in the bottom of the fifth to bring the score, 5-2.

The sixth inning was the downfall for Bernie. Two Reindeer crossed the plate and Bernie's hopes fell with them. In its half of the frame Bernie scored four runs but was still one run shy and the score stood 7-6 going into the final inning.

It was the second victory for the Reindeer in their third outing.

Winning pitcher was Danny Stoelting, (1-1) and the loser was Walker.

NY U to Drop Some Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — New York University, once a giant in college football, but which dropped the sport in 1952, now is considering dropping basketball and track because of financial troubles.

A spokesman said university officials decided at a closed meeting early this week to put the proposal before the school's senate on Thursday. If approved by the senate the proposal then would go to the Board of Trustees.

"In our present position we have to raise more money, cut costs or both," the spokesman said. "For a while there was some talk of eliminating all sports. Taking everything into account on team sports, scholarships, traveling expenses, low return, it is just too expensive"

Until the recently concluded 1971 season, in which the team lost 20 of 25 games followed by the resignation of coach Lou Rossini, the NYU Violets annually were among the foremost basketball teams in the country.

Thomas Twirls No-Hitter,

Chaffee Outduels Kelly

CHAFFEE — Scott Thomas fired a no-hitter at the Kelly Hawks and came out the winning baseball pitcher as the Red Devils defeated the Hawks 1-0.

Jackson and Thomas hooked up in a pitchers' duel. Each walked two and hit one batter.

Chaffee scored the only run of the game in the bottom of the fifth inning when Crowden walked, went to third on the only hit of the game by Householder, the Red Devil third baseman and scored moments later on a wild pitch.

Thomas now holds a record of 3-1 for the season. Chaffee has a 2-1 Scott-Mississippi conference record.

Kelly is also 2-1 in the Scott-Mississippi conference.

Thomas defeated the Sikeston Bulldogs in an earlier game.

90 Attend Forum on Credit Law

MINER— The fair credit reporting act, a federal law which was passed "primarily to insure privacy in the exchange of credit information on individuals", was the subject of a forum at 11:15 a.m. Tuesday at the Ramada Inn. Approximately 90 Sikeston businessmen, merchants, and others attended.

John Martin, regional credit manager of AAA Credit Service, Cape Girardeau, conducted the forum. The St. Louis firm has branch offices in Cape Girardeau and Sikeston.

Martin said the new law, which will become effective April 25, will "in a small way, affect retailers, banks, and small loan companies."

"Some banks and small loan companies refuse giving consumer credit information because they fear they will be classified as a consumer reporting agency," he said.

Martin explained that "as long as you confine your information to your own personal ledger information, you won't need to worry about being considered a consumer reporting agency".

He said that the danger of a bank or loan company becoming a consumer reporting agency does exist if the bank or loan company gives out information from another service other than the credit bureau.

"This whole act is designed to protect the consumer," Martin said.

The primary objective of those who worked on development of the act was to produce a law that would satisfy the legitimate concerns of consumers without placing undue restrictions on credit granters and the credit reporting industry.

Martin said:

"If a farmer buys equipment for his farm, the law does not apply. If the farmer buys a car, then it does apply. If a person buys business insurance, the law does not apply."

JOHN MARTIN regional credit manager of the AAA Credit Service from Cape Girardeau, addressed citizens yesterday on the meaning of the fair credit reporting act.

He said that the person who is refused credit because of information received from a credit bureau, must be notified of the source of the information and its location.

"Any credit agency or user who does not comply with any section of the law can be sued for punitive and actual damages for willful non-compliance," he said.

The forum was concluded with a question and answer session and a banquet.

The First National Bank of Sikeston sponsored the forum.

Dear Charlie:

If it will make you feel any better, I am just as late on deadlines as I have been getting off this note to you.

I appreciated your thoughtfulness in sending me a copy of your huge, very well done progress edition. It was a product in which you should take great pride. We could use your advertising director here.

I have been designated to go to the A.P. Missouri meeting April 30—May 1 in St. Louis. Mary and I will look forward to seeing you there. It ain't Hawaii but it will be good to get out of here for a change of scenery. See you then.

Dear Editor,

Attorney General John C. Danforth should be congratulated for his part in the ousting of ex-sheriff Clyde Orton of Pemiscot county.

Missouri must be in bad shape if sheriffs, and state treasurers are found to be guilty in crime.

If govt. officials cannot abide by the law, then how do they expect the citizens to abide by them.

As for the recent attacks by U.S. senators and congressmen on J. Edgar Hoover, one wonders what these men have to hide??? These men are always asking President Nixon for all the facts on national policies. Perhaps we American citizens should ask J. Edgar Hoover for some facts on what is being said on the telephones of the griping senators. (If they are being tapped?)

Sincerely,
Timothy P. O'Herin

Thomas Turns 79 With Bash In Blimp, Reunion With Rhino

MIAMI (AP)--World-roving newscaster Lowell Thomas celebrated his 79th birthday with a bash in a blimp and a reunion with a baby rhino which nipped the seat of his trousers.

"Each birthday, I try to find something I haven't done before," Thomas said. "I realized that with all the flying I've done, I missed completely the lighter-than-air adventure."

Thomas planned the two-hour blimp ride over Miami Tuesday with his wife and a few close friends, but his other new birthday experience--the rhino bite--was a surprise.

It happened before the blimp party, when Thomas visited a 1,500-pound rhinoceros named Mohan at Crandon Park Zoo.

Thomas offered the rhino a handful of green muchables and turned to say something to zoo director Gordon Hubbell.The rhino kept right on nibbling--at the seat of Thomas' pants."

Thomas starred Mohan in an as yet unscreened documentary rhino hunt in Neptal where the leathery-skinned creature was netted last year. Now Mohan lives in the zoo with an 800-pound cutie named Shanti and zoo officials hope for offspring.

"We hope they will mate," said Thomas. "But we'll have to be careful because rhinos are rather violent lovers. They've been known to kill each other."

Thomas recently completed a film on Siberia and is staying with his son in Hobe Sound. A head cold forced him to postpone the celebration planned on his birth date, April 6.

"I've been going places since 1914. It's my life. But I find I like cold countries now. The heat takes it out of you," he said.

On his 50th birthday, Thomas recalled, he tackled Mt. Washington on skis.

New Park Fee Plan Would Hike Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department has a plan that would cost the camping family much more for a season of tenting on the old federal campground.

Though the department's proposal has its origins with some members of Congress, the legislation still faces tough opposition.

First, the department recommends abandoning the Golden Eagle Passport, which for a $10 fee allows a carload of people admission to any park all year.

Instead, the department proposes a $4 annual permit for each member of a family, young children excepted, and a charge of $3 to $4 for each night's stay at a recreation area or campground.

For a family of five, with three teen-agers along, camping Friday and Saturday night for 10 summer weekends, the cost would be at least $80 instead of the present $10.

The department figures the new charges would bring in $25 million a year for buying and developing more federal recreation areas. The Golden Eagle program is bringing in $10 million.

The proposal faces its first test in the Senate and House Interior committees, with the House starting its hearings in May.

Both committees directed last year, as they extended the Golden Eagle program through 1971, that the department come up with recommendations for another fee system.

Littering Under Attack By Sheriff

Sheriff John Dennis said this morning that his office is investigating rubbish found along county roads and tracing it back to those who dumped it there. He said that 21 cases of illegal dumping have been traced and individuals have been ordered to clean up their litter. One arrest has been made and more will be made, according to Dennis.

The new policy is in line with an order from the county court to clean up Scott county roadways.

Dennis reports that county prisoners have been clearing brush from rural cemeteries and will soon start cleaning on the right-of-way along county roads.

The Watkins family cemetery near Benton cemetery and the Benton cemetery have been cleared of debris and cemeteries at Oran and Morley are scheduled for clearing next.

'Selling of Pentagon' Dispute Keeps Spreading

NEW YORK (AP) — The CBS News documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon," has set off a dispute involving three networks, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, influential congressmen, at least one major newspaper—and now a congressional inquiry.

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee subpoenaed the network to turn over "all film, workprints, outtakes, sound tape recordings, writtensscripts and-or transcripts,' t including those which were not televised.

Dr. Frank Stanton, president of CBS, said the network would provide only material actually broadcast, adding that the demand "raised an unprecedented issue in the history of the relationship between the federal government and the press in this nation."

Both NBC and ABC issued statements Tuesday supporting CBS. NBC President Julian Goodman said the documentary was "a legitimate journalistic inquiry" and called the subpoena an "invasion of a basic, journalistic right.' t

Elmer W. Lower, president of ABC News, said he opposed the subpoena, adding, "To adopt any other position would drastically handicap the effectiveness and integrity of any news organization."

The subpoena was issued by Rep. Harley O. Staggers, DW.Va., chairman of the committee and its special subcommittee on investigations. Both Staggers and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, had filed complaints with the Federal Communications Commission.

If CBS continues to refuse providing the material and if the House of Representatives should vote a contempt citation, it could result in a major court test of broadcast journalism's freedom.

The controversy at first was between CBS and Agnew, Hebert and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. But it has continued to spread to include others, among them the Washington Post.

The dispute could spread to other areas. Hebert complained to the Federal Communications Commission that CBS used film edited in a manner to discredit the military's public relations effort. Staggers also filed a complaint with the FCC and said he is considering a hearing by his special subcommittee on investigations.

CBS said in the program, aired first on Feb. 23 and again on March 23, that the military establishment was spending at least $30 million and possibly as much as $190 million on public relations.

The thrust of the documentary was that the Pentagon was using its public relations funds not only to inform but to persuade the public on vital national policies. It said, "Defending the country not just with arms but also with ideology, Pentagon propaganda insists on America's role as the cop on every beat in the world."

Complaints centered on charges that in at leazst two instances CBS rearranged statements by an Army colonel and by Asst. Secretary of Defense Daniel Z. Henkin. The effect, critics charged, was to substantially alter the emphasis and meaning of the statements.

Laird called the documentary "unprofessional."

After the first broadcast, Hebert termed it "the most misleading and damaging attack on our people over there that I have ever hard of." He said he had not seen it but had read about it in the newspapers.

A few days before the second showing, Agnew said in an address to the Middlesex Club in Boston March 18 that the show was "a subtle but vicious broadcaise against the nation's defense establishment" and that CBS had used questionable editing techniques.

Agnew said, "It is the CBS television network, not the Department of Defense, that leaves much to be desired in terms of 'the free flow of information.'"

Stanton replied that the network "stands behind' t the program.

At a news conference the morning after his speech, Agnew said he had "no thoughts of intimidation' but wanted to tell the American people "that they cannot rely on CBS documentaries for facts. t He said, "It's important to note that there was quite a bit of cutand-paste job done in that documantary" in which the sentences of a colonel were rearranged in sequence to seem to run together.

CBS rebroadcast the documentary March 22 and at the end included selected criticism from previous interviews with Agnew, Laird and Hebert and a rebuttal from Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News.

The vice president said the next day at a news conference at St. Louis that "I'm totally dissatisfied with ... with what they characterized as a ebuttal on the part of administration officials, who included myself.'

Agnew said he found it rather unusual that he should have the right of rebuttal without being able to decide which film clips would be used in rebuttal.

Church, State Separation Issue Fueled by Nixon Plans

By Editorial Research Reports

President Nixon's latest revenue- sharing proposal promises a boost in aid to the nation's 11,350 parochial schools. And like nearly all general education - aid proposals, this one will add new fuel to the never - ending hassle over the church - state separation issue.

In a special message to Congress, April 6, the President proposed turning $3 billion of federal education funds over to the states, provided that: (1) more than half the money go to serve disadvantaged children, and (2) all forms of educational services be made available to students in nonpublic schools. The President repeated a position he has taken previously that parochial schools "bear a significant share of the cost and effort" of educating American children, hence are entitled to a share of public education -aid funds.

Opponents of parochiaid were quick to react. Joseph B. Robison, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, contended that diversion of more federal funds to nonpublic schools would be "bad for government, bad for religion and bad for education." A spokesman for Americans United for Separation of Church and State declared: "Public schools, particularly in the inner city, are facing serious financial problems. These schools need every dollar of the public money that is being diverted to church institutions."

Litigation in states where tax funds have been made available for church-school aid has been chronic since passage of the Elementary and Secondary School Act of 1965. Benefits to private schools under this act are limited. But the law broke the dam, and many states enacted new provisions for nonpublic school aid. Just as promptly, opposing groups took action to stem thetide. According to Americans United, there has been a continuing log of 20 to 30 pending cases challenging the constitutionality of parochiaid. One of these cases is now before the U.S. Supreme Court and a landmark decision is expected.

New private school-aid laws have also been challenged by petitioning for referenda to repeal them. Michigan voters approved on Nov. 3 a constitutional amendment forbidding state aid to nonpublic schools. The Michigan Supreme Court ruled early this year that the amendment does not cut off auxiliary services. Still permitted is payment of teachers of secular subjects in parochial schools IF the teachers and the teaching programs are totally under the control of public authorities. Americans United will petition for a referendum to knock down a program approved by the Maryland legislature on April 1 to give financial aid to families of private school children.

The situation is obviously one of rising pressures both for and against more direct aid to parochial schools. Fear of the huge load it would dump on public schools if the Catholics closed down their parish schools constitutes a powerful pressure for more aid. President Nixon warned a year ago that if the parochial schools, with their 4.3 million students, collapsed, it would put a $4 billion -a -year burden on the taxpayer in addition to demanding $5 billion for new facilities.

The financial difficulties of the church schools are well-known. Some Catholics question whether they are worth their cost, even with more public aid. "With a growing group of Catholics," writes the managing editor of the liberal Catholic weekly COMMONWEAL, "I feel that parochial schools have served their exalted purposes ... [and] are now hindrance rather than help to Catholicism." Those who share this view believe the parish church could put its money and its energy to better use on other forms of educational and spiritual work.

Choral Festival Set for Friday

CAPE GIRARDEAU--About 650 high school vocal music students from the Southeast Missouri State College service area will be on the campus Friday for the college's annual choral festival, sponsored by the division of music.

The students will be divided into two groups, according to Gordon Corwin of the music faculty at the college, a mixed chorus of about 450 and a girls' chorus of about 200.

Corwin and Paul Kirk, also of the music faculty, are in charge of arrangements for the festival.

Each group will rehearse throughout the morning and afternoon under the direction of a guest clinician, and the festival will culminate with a concert in the auditorium of Academic Hall on the campus beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The concert, free and open to the public, will also feature the concert choir of Poplar Bluff High School, according to Corwin, who said each year one high school choir is invited to take part in the concert as special guests of the festival.

Guest clinician for the mixed chorus will be Dr. Warren Angel, chairman of the Music Division at Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, Okla. Dr. Sally Montour, professor of music at Georgia State University in Atlanta, will be guest clinician for the girls' chorus.

Participants in the festival are picked by the choral directors at each high school, Corwin said. High schools invited are allocated a maximum number of participants based on their size and music enrollment, he added.

Interview on Radials With Frank Apelle

NEW YORK — Frank, we understand that you are conducting an indepentent test involving some pretty hard driving.

We are running a test for the Environmental Protection Agency which took over from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. We're accumulating mileage on three makes of cars, Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth. We're putting 50,000 miles on 36 cars to test their emission control equipment. These cars run 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and they operate on an average speed of about 32 miles an hour. The speed actually varies on the race track anywhere from as low as 30 miles an hour to as high as 70. They have periods where they stop for 15 or 20 seconds. We'll be putting a total of 1.8 million miles on these cars altogether, so you can see that we're going to get a lot of chance to try these tires out.

Where do you get your drivers.

They're just ordinary people that we've hired for this program that live in the area.

In the process of getting into the test program, we had to bid for the program. I originally estimated that we were going to get about 15,000 miles out of the tires. We found out running on this 18 degree bank at these low speeds that the mileage with the best bias belted tires was anywhere from 2,100 miles to an absolute maximum on the easiest cycle of 11,000 miles. This really shot my figures. We purchased a set of B. F. Goodrich Radials and ran some rapid accumulation miles on them to see how they would work out. The worst we've gotten out of one of the radials is about 18,000 miles and it looks like the best ones are going to go in the vicinity of 30,000 miles or better.

One of the reasons that we're wearing tires rapidly here, particularly the bias belted tires, is because the cars are running so slow on that 18 degree bank and and they're scrubbing off the front tires. The low slip angle of the radials is giving us the excellent mileage. The tire does bit better and doesn't slide as much.

Why did you go to B. F. Goodrich Lifesaver Radials?

First of all, I've been running radial tires on various imported cars since about 1957. I've had lots of experience with Michelin and Pirelli and a little bit of experience with Dunlop. I did some checking and some fellas at Ford and people told me that the best American radial at this time was the Goodrich. So I obtained a set and we tested them. I'll have to say that they've performed far better than I expected them to.

Did this have any effect on the gas mileage, switching to the Lifesaver Radial tire?

Yes. The gas mileage compared to our best bias-belted tire is about 11% better. This is better than I anticipated. I really expected 5 or 6%. We're going to save in excess of $5,000 just on gasoline. That's a significant amount.

Would you like to make a direct comparison between the Pirelli, the Michelin and the LifesaverRadial?

Yes, In the case of the Michelin, you've got a steel-belted radial which gives excellent wear qualities but has a little bit of a stability problem at high speeds and can cause the car to have rapid break-away. In the Pirelli, you have a far better handling tire, but you don't have the wearing qualities. And the Pirelli is not nearly as good as the Michelin in the wet. I've got a set of the Lifesavers on my own company car.

Student Newspaper Wins High Marks

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The student newspaper at Southeast Missouri State College, The Capaha Arrow, has received within the last two weeks a first class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press and a first place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Both associations judged The Arrow in comparison with commonly-accepted journalistic standards and with the performance of newspapers on other campus with about the same enrollment as Southeast Missouri State.

In both cases the ratings are the highest an individual newspaper can receive with the exception of a very few student publications rates All-American by the ACP and Medalist by the CSPA.

The ratings reflected the judges' evaluation of the newspaper's performance in such areas as content and coverage, writing and editing, editorial leadership, physical appearance, and photography.

The ACP of the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis reviewed all issues of The Arrow from September through December of 1970. The CSPA of Columbia University in New York ranked the newspaper on the basis of all issues from Easter, 1970, through January, 1971.

While the judges of both association pointed out a number of areas which could be improved, they also commented positively on the newspaper.

The ACP judge liked the makeup of the inside news pages and also the content of Arrow editorials. He said, "Your editorials are alert to the news and issues vital to students."

The CSPA judge said, "The Capaha Arrow reflects the excellent care given copy and other elements by editors and writers. This is a well-organized, smartly-handled publication SEMO students should appreciate."

He also commended the newspaper for having "the distinction of being in that small company of college papers still dedicated to the proposition that a newspaper's mission is to relate the news of interest and importance to its readers. You do a top job in coverage."

The New England and California coasts are among the foggiest regions in the United States.

Students Will Give Concert

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Southeast Missouri State College chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, professional music fraternity, will team up April 22 with the chapter from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale for a concert of contemporary music, much of it written by the students themselves.

Joe Pappas, president of the Southeast Missouri State chapter, said the annual concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Academic Hall on the Southeast Missouri State campus. It is free and open to the public.

Pappas, a junior from Festus, himself composed the music for two of the five numbers which will comprise the Southeast Missouri State portion of the concert.

One is a vocal solo with organ accompaniment entitled "Lord Hear My Prayer." The other is a brass choir number entitled "Fantasia."

Other Southeast Missouri State students who composed music for the concert are Melvin Oberhaus of Union, Donna Mesler of Kirkwood, Dave Cozby of Jonesboro, Ill., and Eugene Hughes of St. Louis.

Oberhaus wrote "Fantasy in Fifths" for a trumpet quartet. Hughes set the words of T. S. Eliot's "The Hollow Men" to music for a vocal solo with piano accompaniment.

Miss Mesler and Cozby collaborated on "Dedication to the Love We Share," a vocal solo with piano and brass accompaniment.

Pappas said the portion of the program to be presented by the SIU group was not complete, but that it would include student numbers as well as original works by SIU faculty members.

The concert will last from an hour to an hour and a half, Pappas said.

COLD STORAGE

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Babies on ice are a prospect for the future. University researcher Dr. Robert Edwards predicts couples will be able to delay the birth of children by having their eggs and semen stored in ice.

"Deep-freeze babies are just one of the science-fiction-like possibilities growing out of startling progress made by British researchers," Dr. Edwards says.

The Liberty Bell is permanently housed in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.

Community Development Plan Designed to Reduce Red Tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Part of the maze facing local governments in search of federal aid would melt away, says President Nixon, if Congress permits him to put $9 billion worth of programs in a new Department of Community Development.

With the new department, the President says, communities such as Monroe, Ohio, would no longer have to apply for sewer aid to three federal agencies with regional offices in three separate cities.

Cities such as Cambridge, Mass., would be spared filing each year 134 separate federal and 17 state urban aid applications under 153 different sets of regulations.

The Nixon plan would gather related programs in five departments and three agencies into the proposed Community Development Department. Added to the core of the present Department of Housing and Urban Development would be highway and mass transit programs from the Department of Transportation; development programs from the Commerce Department; rural housing, water and sewer, and electrification programs from the Agriculture Department; and library grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Other programs, such as community action, would come from the Office of Economic Opportunity, Small Business Administration, and Appalachian Regional Commission.

Here in a question-and-answer format is the administration's view of how the department would operate and its advantages.

Q. What's wrong with things the way they are?

A. There is no single government organization with the responsibility and authority to coordinate and direct federal assistance for community development. For example, HUD and Agriculture each have programs for housing, water and sewer lines, and recreational areas.

As a result, separate departments must come up with piecemeal approaches to the problem's solutions.

Q. How would the new organization help local governments?

A. They would draw up one comprehensive development plan, including transportation, housing, and community facilities and service, and get funds from one federal agency rather than eight.

Q. How will the department promote more orderly national development?

A. The impact of proposed transportation systems, for example, on land utilization, housing patterns, and local economic development can be determined by a single department.

Q. Is this department for big cities only?

A. No. The Department would aid smaller towns and rural areas, too.

Q. What types of aid would be available?

A. Planning money and technical assistance to strengthen local governments; programs, such as community action, to encourage citizen movements for civic improvement; money for construction of mass transit systems, highways, subsidized housing, water and sewer lines, libraries, parks and electrical and telephone lines; flood, riot, and crime insurance.

Q. What would be the major components of the department?

A. An urban and rural development administration to build up state and local government, to encourage individual participation in community development, and to provide basic public facilities.

A community transportation administration to develop balanced and integrated transportation systems, including public transit and highways.

Housing administration to produce, manage and maintain subsidized housing.

Q. How big would the department be?

A. A projected first-year budget of $9.7 billion with some 30,000 employes.

Reception for Artist, Sunday

DEXTER — "A Meet the Artist Reception" will be held Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Dexter library civic center to open an exhibit by Mrs. Carole Myers, a professional artist from St. Louis.

She is nearing the completion of a three-months artist in residence program in Stoddard county schools and communities. This event will start the activities of National Library Week for the Dexter public library.

Stoddard county was selected as one of the locations in Missouri to have a professional artist-in-residence for three months. This grant came through funds from the National Endowment on the Arts.

Mrs. Myers has won 235 awards including the Watercolor U.S.A. traveling exhibit on three different occasions. Her work was chosen by the Department of State for the "Art in the Embassies" program. In April, she was awarded a prize for a work titled, "January Storm," at the St. Louis Artists Build annual water-color and pastel exhibit. In the Mid-south Exhibition at the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery in Memphis, two of her paintings were among the 132 selected for exhibit. Three of her works were among the 123 selected from entries at the Artists Annual Exhibition, Philbrook Arts Center in Tulsa this spring.

The exhibit will feature paintings completed by Mrs. Myers since she has been in Stoddard county and prize winning selections.

The public is invited to attend.

The exhibit will remain on display during Nation Library Week, Sunday through Saturday, and can bee seen Monday through Friday from noon to 5 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 a.m.

School groups wishing to view the exhibit are asked to contact the library in advance by calling Mrs. Grundy Turlington, librarian, at 624-3764.

Nursing Test Set for Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Dent Test, a battery of psychological tests dealing with scholastic aptitudes, nursing aptitudes, and personality factors, will be given Saturday to students seeking to enter the two-year, associate of arts degree nursing program at Southeast Missouri State College.

This is the final testing session for this academic year according to Dr. Helen Kinney, head of the department of nursing education at Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Kinney said any student desiring admission to the nursing program at the college should plan to take the test on this day. Satisfactory performance on the test or completion of a remedial program is a requirement before a potential nursing student can be admitted to the Southeast Missouri State program.

The testing will begin promptly at 8 a.m. in Room 116 of Academic Hall on the campus and be completed about noon or 12:30 p.m. Immediately following the test, the potential nursing students will meet with the college's nursing faculty and will have an opportunity to discuss the college's program and ask questions.

Dr. Kinney said the Dent Test identifies students' weaknesses in basic skills such as reading, spelling and arithmetic which will handicap them in the nursing program. It also assesses general nursing aptitudes.

The results of the test are used to counsel applicants regarding remedial measures that can be taken prior to enrolling in the nursing program. The test is scored by a specialized company and all information is treated confidentially.

Dr. Kinney said no preparation is necessary for the test.

SHOW & TELL

Well movie-fans tonight is the night. Tonight is the world series, and the super-bowl of the movie industry rolled into one. Several careers are at stake and a great deal of money will hang in the balance when Hollywood presents its Academy Awards.

Since the movies in Sikeston didn't change last night I thought I might take this small opportunity to pick my choices in a few categories and see if you might agree. We all have our personal favorites, so you may differ greatly in your choices from mine, but that's the American way isn't it.

George C. Scott has created more excitement over this year's awards than any in several years. Mr. Scott says he doesn't want the "phoney" award and wouldn't take it if they gave it to him. I still think his performance as "Patton" was the best of the year and Hollywood should give the Oscar to him regardless.

Carrie Snodgress, despite her name, should be a walk-away favorite for Best Actress honors. Her performance in "Dairy of a Mad Housewife" outshone any other entry and I pick her all the way.

For Best Supporting Actor I'm going to make a guess because I haven't seen the movie, but I hope Chief Dan George from the movie "Little Big Man" is the winner. I've read that his portrayal was remarkable and he's my choice.

Best Supporting Actress should not even be close. Karen Black was without a doubt the greatest thing around as Jack Nicholson dumb girlfriend in "Five Easy Pieces" I'd bet money on this one. Karen Black all the way.

Robert Altman is my pick for best director for his fine work on "M*A*S*H*".

For movie of the year I'm afraid to say. I hope that "M*A*S*H*" wins, but the competition is pretty tough.

Oh well, if you see me on the street next week and I miss all of my picks, please don't say any cute remarks, just keep your laughter to yourself and I promise to stick to reviewing movies instead of looking into crystal balls.

Bye For Now .....

from
The Upper Room

When Jesus had received the vinegar, he said, "It is finished"; and he bowed his head and give up his spirit. (John 19:30, RSV)

STAR GAZING
By Kurt Lassen

If you're a stereo headset fan, don't wear them while driving, particularly in Houston, Texas. The fine can go as high as $200 if a new ordinance passes.

Among gold record winners are WILSON PICKETT for his "Don't Let The Green Grass Fool You," THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY (their second) for "Up To Date," ANDY WILLIAMS (his 14th) for his "Love Story" album.

Ex-Beatle PAUL McCARTNEY's "Another Day" riding high on the British charts as is NEIL DIAMOND's "Sweet Caroline" and "Sweet Lord" by another ex-Beatle, GEORGE HARRISON. Also in London, THE ROLLING STONES taped two television shows at the same time using five cameras before a live audience.

DAVID CASSIDY, who has really hit it big since his PARTRIDGE FAMILY show, has racked up capacity audiences on his personal appearance debut in Seattle and Portland. THE CARPENTERS are being touted as possibilities for an Academy Award for their "For All We Know" which is the theme for the film, "Lovers and Other Strangers."

Fate takes strange twists. When the FIFTH DIMENSION were first getting started, they auditioned for DEAN MARTIN who told them they weren't ready. Billy Joe Thomas was born 24 years ago in Houston, Texas.

B. J. was chosen by Burt Bacharach and Hal David to sing their tune, "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head," in the Paul Newman film "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." Since then, "Raindrops" was not only the number one record in the country, but has sold well over three million copies, and won the Academy Award for "Best Song." "I Just Can't Help Believing" was top 10 on the national charts, and his next single, "Most Of All" looks like it will follow suit.

Here's the fertilizer for lawns that need "something extra."

It's SUPER TURF BUILDER, the fertilizer that supplies even more greening power than Scotts regular Turf Builder—without any increase in weight. SUPER TURF BUILDER makes grass grow thicker, sturdier and greener. Makes it stay that way longer too. SUPER TURF BUILDER is clean, odorfree and easy to apply. Will not burn grass, in any weather. A great way to build up a lawn that really needs "something extra."
